India to step up ties with Indonesia

JAYANTH JACOB @ New Delhi

INDIA and Indonesia agreed to instill a new momentum into their ties, with particular focus on collaborating in defence manufacturing, maritime security and supply chains as Prime Minister Narendra Modi held extensive talks with President Prabowo Subianto on Saturday.

The Indonesian President, who is on a three-day visit to India, will be the chief guest at the Republic Day celebrations on Sunday.

"To strengthen our cooperation in the defence sector, we have decided to work together in the areas of defence manufacturing and supply chain," Modi said.

Describing the visit of the President as the chief guest for the Republic Day as a "matter of immense pride", Modi said: "We have also highlighted the importance of cooperation in maritime security, cyber security, counter-terrorism, and de-radicalisation. The agreement signed today on maritime safety and security will enhance our collaboration in areas such as crime prevention, search and rescue, and capacity building."

Indonesia, an ASEAN partner and an archipelagic nation comprising over 17,000 islands located between the Indian Ocean and the Pacific Ocean holds immense strategic significance to India.

Unified Pension Scheme to kick in from April 1

DIPAK MONDAL @ New Delhi

THE Unified Pension Scheme (UPS) for Central government employees — an improvement over the existing National Pension System (NPS) — will come into force from April 1. A government notification issued on Saturday said those who opt for UPS can't go back to the NPS.

State governments, too, can implement the UPS. As on March 31, 2024, 26 lakh Central government and 66 lakh state government employees were making contributions to NPS. Of the ₹11.7 lakh crore corpus under NPS, state and Central government employees accounted for ₹9 lakh crore.

The UPS guarantees a monthly payout of 50% of the 12 monthly average basic pay, immediately prior to the retirement of an employee who completed at least 25 years of service. It also guarantees a minimum monthly pension of ₹10,000 for those who have less than 25 years of service but served 10 years or more. In the case of voluntary retirement after at least 25 years in service, the assured payout will start from the date on which the employee would have retired, had he continued in service.

In the event of the pensioner's death, his family will receive 60% of the pension amount that was being disbursed at the time of demise.

The pension will be adjusted for inflation. This means that the payments will include dearness relief.

The UPS will have two funds — an individual corpus with employee contribution and matching Central government contribution; and a pool corpus with additional Central government contribution. The contribution of employees will be 10% of basic pay plus DA. The government will match it and provide an additional sum at an estimated 8.5% of basic pay plus DA to all those who chose the individual corpus.

RANA LOSES LAST APPEAL AGAINST EXTRADITION

MUKESH RANJAN @ New Delhi

DECKS have been cleared for the extradition of Tahawwur Hussain Rana, a Canadian national of Pakistani origin and a convict in the Mumbai terror attack case, to India after the US Supreme Court recently dismissed his review petition.

India has been seeking Rana's extradition since 2019.

Rana's petition in the US Supreme Court was his last legal option to avoid his extradition to India. Incidentally, the US Supreme Court's order came on January 21, a day after Donald Trump took charge as the 47th President of the US.

Rana, 64, is currently lodged at the Metropolitan Detention Centre in Los Angeles.

According to Indian agencies, Rana is an associate of Pakistani-American terrorist David Coleman Headley, a key conspirator of the 26/11 Mumbai attacks. At least 166 people were killed in the attacks orchestrated by Pakistan-based Lashkar-e-Toiba.

Ajmal Kasab was the only convict executed in the case. Another accused, Sayed Zabiuddin Ansari alias Abu Jundal, an Indian operative working for LeT, was arrested in 2012.

Paddy farmers of Koppal harness tech tools to market their produce directly, and edge out exploitative middlemen

A paddy field near Gangavati in Koppal district

DIGITAL REVOLUTION IN THE RICE BOWL

RAGHOTTAM KOPPAR @Koppal

FOR the paddy farmers of Koppal, social media has arrived as the great leveller. It has also opened up many windows of opportunity, helping them break out of the iron grip of middlemen. The farmers are now using search engines, social media and digital platforms to bypass middlemen and reach out to wholesalers.

Many farmers, leading a rather cloistered life in Koppal, had no idea of pricing in various markets and were dependent on agents and middlemen, who took advantage of their ignorance and made their little bags of profit. The price of paddy had been hit for the past few years, but they would somehow manage.

Gradually, they began observing that paddy prices were low but the price of rice was high. A few months ago, this price variation in different markets became a hot topic of discussion, and farmers decided to use the power of the internet and social media to market their crop. With the help of friends in tech fields, they learnt to check market prices online and reached out to wholesalers in Bengaluru and neighbouring states.

Farmer Mahantesh Hiremath checks market prices for crops on his mobile phone | DHEMANT

How things changed

Earlier, the paddy growers had not considered contacting wholesalers directly as they used to get good rates, but they didn't know that the middlemen were taking a high percentage of profit. It was only after two years of consecutive losses that they realised they needed to do something about their hard work reaping low rewards.

A few months ago, many growers had gathered at Koppal market to sell their crop. They shared their bitter experiences and how middlemen were making profits. One of them suggested that they use their mobiles to check day-to-day prices, while another grower shared website addresses and details.

Farmers learnt to upload photographs of their crop on WhatsApp and other platforms, and this set the digital revolution in motion. Growers began sharing details of paddy bags, with prices and quality, on WhatsApp groups and asked friends to share the same on other social media platforms. Initially, they got a few calls but after a few days, their phones were ringing continuously. As news of online marketing spread, the number of middlemen visiting paddy farmers dropped to a trickle. Incidentally, there are still some farmers who have not yet taken to digital platforms.

Games agents play

What set off the revolution was something sinister. Months earlier, agents had spread rumours about excess chemical usage for the paddy crop grown in Koppal region, stopping wholesalers from visiting farmers here. Many agents claimed that wholesalers who export rice to Gulf countries were not keen on buying rice from Koppal because the farmers use excess fertilizers, and brought down the price of the crop. They used the opportunity to make profit by helping farmers find markets.

Raju Kampli, a farmer from Koppal, said, "We have decided not to sell our paddy crop to agents. They give us a low price. Some of our friends told us to use online marketing and SEO (search engine optimisation) to sell our crop. We started using our mobiles and learnt many things in very little time. We also shared our paddy crop details, its quality and our contact numbers on some social media groups and started getting orders. We collected wholesalers' numbers from some websites and contacted them. Our paddy quality is good and Gangavati is called the 'Rice Bowl of Karnataka', which helped us get many clients."

Mahantesh Hiremath, another paddy farmer from Gangavati, said, "Earlier we never used our mobiles in a fruitful way. When we came to know that our produce goes to Gulf countries and middlemen are taking advantage of us, we decided to sell directly. It took two months to reach the right customers but we finally succeeded. We used Google, WhatsApp and other market-related websites to check prices and reach wholesalers and other customers."

A few paddy growers have now decided to start an awareness campaign about using digital platforms and avoiding middlemen.

With these Bengaluru kids, the sole lives on...

BOSKY KHANNA @Bengaluru

MOST usually tend to throw away their old, worn out shoes if they cannot pass them on to their siblings. But don't throw away those footwear, and instead hand them over to these Bengaluru kids managing the NGO, Hasiru Sole.

Conceptualised and formed by 16-year-olds, Vedika Balachandran and Ameya Uchil, in February 2023, their NGO till date has handed over 6,000 pairs of footwear to the needy in slums, orphanages and other such places in Bengaluru and Mumbai. They have also donated over 250 mats and 400 bags.

The idea of starting Hasiru Sole came during a conversation the two were having one weekend after observing construction workers walking barefoot and pourakarmikas working with unkempt footwear. The sight of children walking on roads that were littered with sharp objects, garbage and people's indiscriminate spitting moved them to do something for these people. Today, they are a team of 15 like-minded friends, who call themselves a club and hold virtual meetings every weekend to decide what to do next. "We do not hand over the shoes immediately after we collect them. We upscale them using cobblers and then hand over. Money for mending the shoes is collected from philanthropists in the neighbourhood and through donations," said Vedika.

Vedika Balachandran and Ameya Uchil distribute footwear to the needy | EXPRESS

Uchil said, "Finding cobblers is difficult in Bengaluru nowadays. Sometimes, we go to the city outskirts to find them. This way, we are helping them earn a livelihood too." Walking through their method of working, Vedika said they have no website or social media page, barring an Instagram handle (@hasirusoleclub), where they post pictures after distributing shoes. "We work through word of mouth. We also have an email address (hasirusole@gmail.com). People tell us that they have shoes to give away or email us. We collect them from their doorstep free of cost. They are then upscaled and distributed to the needy at no cost," she said.

According to data from various recyclers' associations, recycling is a better alternative, but it also involves energy intensive processes.

VIOLIN maestro L Subramaniam (77), veteran Kannada actor Anant Nag (76), and music composer Ricky Kej (43) are among the nine Padma award winners from Karnataka announced by the Union Government on the eve of Republic Day on Saturday.

While Subramaniam was conferred the Padma Vibhushan, the second highest civilian award, Nag received the Padma Bhushan. Their awards are for their contributions in the field of art. Author and journalist A Surya Prakash was awarded the Padma Bhushan for his contributions in the field of literature, education and journalism.

Martial arts coach Hassan Raghu (Art), business icon Prashanth Prakash (Trade and Industry), music composer Ricky Kej (Art), Oncologist Dr Vijayalakshmi Deshamane (Medicine), master puppeteer of Togalu Gombeyaata (leather puppetry) Bhimavva Shillekyatar (Art) and Gondhali folk maestro Venkappa Ambaji Sugatekar (Art) are the six Padma Shri award winners from Karnataka. Indumati Deshmani, sister of Dr Vijayalakshmi, told The New Sunday Express, "Our mother used to sell vegetables by visiting houses while our father was a freedom fighter and labourer in MSK Mills. Dr Vijayalakshmi used to assist my mother in selling vegetables." Indumati is a lecturer at PDA College of Engineering in Kalaburagi.

Recalling their childhood days, Indumati said, "Though our parents were not educated and were poor, they took all efforts to give us a good education. Dr Vijayalakshmi is an oncologist and was the former director of Kidwai Cancer Hospital. Now she runs an orphanage in Bengaluru. She did not marry to serve the people more. We five sisters are PhD holders, and our brother is an advocate in Kalaburagi."

Bhimavva Shillekyatar (96) has been conferred the Padma Shri for preserving and nurturing the rural art form of Togalu Gombeyaata. Bhimavva, though not educated, has preserved the art form that has been passed down through generations. This is the only family in the entire Koppal district that has been performing leather puppetry for hundreds of years.

Bhimavva, who mastered puppetry at the age of 14, primarily performs shows based on mythological stories of the Ramayana and Mahabharata and has been active for the last 70 years. Apart from performing across the country, she has taken the art to 12 other countries, including Japan, Germany, USA, France and Saudi Arabia. To keep the art alive, Bhimavva continues to train the youth in this art form through workshops. A proud Bhimavva said that the award was due to blessings of the God and that the honour is not for any one individual but to puppetry and to all the artistes involved in keeping it alive.

Venkappa Ambaji Sugatekar (84), a folk artiste of Bagalkot district, has received the Padma Shri. He is one of the few artistes who is still preserving the folk art of 'Gondhali'. Sugatekar has been involved in this folk art since his childhood. "He was only 17 when he started learning Gondhali. He became so fascinated by it that he turned it into a passion and profession. It has continued till date with the same intensity," said Sachin Sugatekar, the veteran artiste's grandson.

Known as the 'Bhishma' of Gondhali music and storytelling, the artiste has reportedly sung more than 1,000 Gondhali songs and narrated over 150 stories. He has also trained more than 1,000 students.

3-DAY MILLET FAIR GENERATES ₹185.41 CR

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@Bengaluru

THE three-day International Trade Fair 2025- Organics and Millets concluded successfully on Saturday, generating a revenue of Rs 185.41 crore and recording an estimated footfall of 31akh people. With participation from 25 states across India and five state agriculture ministers, the fair highlighted the growing significance of organic and millets-based products.

More than 330 stalls were set up at the fair, where 194 producers and 105 marketing organisations engaged in 185 B2B meetings.

Speaking at the valedictory programme, Agriculture Minister N Chaluvaraya Swamy said the government will work towards strengthening the agricultural sector. "When farmers are empowered, the country becomes secure, and villages develop."

The fair provided a platform to honour and encourage farmers for their hard work.

Further, he said the state government has requested the Central government to procure all types of millets at supportive prices. "Organic and millet products have health benefits, and should be incorporated into daily diets," he urged.

He mentioned that representatives from other states, impressed by the fair's success, expressed their intention to replicate similar events in their respective regions. Additionally, the event highlighted the growing participation of young entrepreneurs in the preparation, marketing, and export of value-added agricultural products.

He further added that the agriculture department, provides support and encouragement for agricultural innovations.

NATIONAL VOTERS' DAY

Voter ID cards distributed to first-time voters

Bengaluru: Voter ID cards were distributed to first-time voters, persons with disabilities, transgender individuals, and members of tribal communities as part of the National Voters' Day celebration on Saturday. Over 1,500 attendees, including officials, students, and others, took the voters' pledge. The event was inaugurated by the Governor of Karnataka, Thawarchand Gehlot, and attended by Chief Electoral Officer Manoj Kumar Meena and BBMP Chief Commissioner Tushar Girinath. The Election Commission of India - Chief Electoral Officer, Karnataka, organised the event at Sir Puttanna Chetty Town Hall.

A woman and her son were robbed at gunpoint by a gang of five unidentified robbers in City Market police station limits on Friday afternoon. The incident happened on the busy RT Street between 3.30 pm and 4 pm. The accused escaped with 25 grams of gold and Rs 30k

HC tells state to constitute three-member panel to ensure health infra at all levels

Committee should collect and assess details from districts every 6 months, says court

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@ Bengaluru

THE Karnataka High Court directed the Department of Health and Family Welfare to constitute a three-member committee headed by the secretary of the department to continuously oversee and implement a mechanism to ensure medical facility and medical infrastructure, including medical and para-medical personnel, at all levels – city, district and rural.

A division bench of Chief Justice NV Anjaria and Justice KV Aravind passed the order while disposing of a public interest litigation that was taken up suo motu based on a report – "Karnataka Short of 16,500 Medical Personnel" – published by TNIE on October 16, 2023.

"The whole underlying purpose for initiating the present suo motu public interest litigation was to effectuate the fundamental right to health and to orient and activate the state authorities incharge of the healthcare to achieve the welfare-purpose," the court said.

TNIE's report was published based on a study "$1 Trillion Economy Karnataka's Vision" released by the Federation of Indian Chambers of Commerce and Industry. Apart from vacancies, TNIE also highlighted a shortfall of 454 primary health centres (PHCs) in the state and inadequate medical facilities in rural areas. After taking up suo motu cognisance of the report, the court while passing the order on November 7, 2023, appointed advocate Shridhar Prabhu as amicus curiae and advocate B Vachan to assist the court on the issue.

In a series of directions, the court said the committee headed by the secretary should every six months collect and assess relevant details from districts about the number of vacancies of medical staff in different categories, the need for upgrading or further extending the medical infrastructure and PHCs run by the government and should take steps to fill up vacant posts.

The court said the committees should be constituted at the district level headed by deputy commissioners for a similar exercise to collect details of medical staff vacancies, infrastructure and medical facilities at district and taluk levels every six months and to take steps to fill the vacancies. To upgrade PHCs in rural areas and provide facilities from time to time, the court directed the state government to undertake the survey periodically, preferably every six months and decide about establishing additional PHCs on need basis in villages. Directing the Health and Family Welfare Department to evolve and set up a mechanism to see that there is proper coordination and supervision in implementing different health schemes of the central government and the state government, the court said the budgeting provision for the purpose should be properly and adequately made and there should be purpose-serving spending of the budgetary allocations.

'No one responsible' in death note not enough to scrap dowry case: HC

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@ Bengaluru

NOTING that mere mention in the suicide note that nobody is responsible for the death is not a ground to quash the proceedings when evidence categorically points to dowry harassment, the Karnataka High Court refused to quash proceedings against a victim's husband, father-in-law and mother-in-law.

Justice M Nagaprasanna passed the order, dismissing a petition filed by the victim's husband Vikas CV and her in-laws Savitha and Vasanth Kumar, residing at Nagasandra in the city. The petition questioned the case registered against them with the Peenya police by the victim's father Ramakrishna Reddy from Anantapur district in Andhra Pradesh.

The victim, R Roja, married Vikas in 2019. A few months after marriage, the relationship is said to have been strained. Barely 13 months of marriage, the victim died by suicide. On October 24, 2020, the victim's father filed the complaint of dowry harassment.

The court said it is rather unfortunate that the age-old menace of dowry death still exists in society. Though there has been progress on every front, cases of this kind which project the menace of dowry death are regressive. The offences are the ones punishable under Sections 498A and 304B of the IPC. Therefore, merely based upon the death note of the victim, which at all times would require evidence of circumstances in which the suicide happens or the death note is scribed, quashing of the proceedings under Section 482 of the CrPC is not a course available to this court, the court said.

The counsel for the petitioners vehemently contended that the victim while committing suicide had left the death note, in which she blamed none but herself. The advocate contended that neither the offence under Section 498-A nor 304-B of the IPC or even the offence under the Dowry Prohibition Act is met in the case at hand, he argued.

Gang abducts Ballari doc, demands ₹6cr ransom

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @ Ballari

DR Sunil, 45, a pediatrician at Ballari District Hospital, was allegedly abducted by a gang from a public park near his residence on Saturday.

The kidnappers have demanded that they be paid Rs 6 crore for his release.

Senior police officers, including the superintendent of police, held an emergency meeting and formed a special team to investigate the case.

A complaint has been filed at Gandhi Nagar police station.

According to police, the kidnappers seem to be familiar with Dr Sunil's routine.

Footage from CCTV cameras in the vicinity of the park show four people forcibly taking him away.

Within a few hours, the kidnappers contacted Dr Sunil's family members and placed their demand for ransom.

The police suspect that the kidnappers targeted Dr Sunil as his brother is a prominent businessman in the city. The special team has obtained some clues and is hopeful of solving the case soon, the police said.

Meanwhile, BJP MLA Gali Janardhana Reddy expressed shock over the abduction of Dr Sunil and urged the state government to take swift action.

He alleged that the law and order situation in the state is deteriorating with each passing day.

Former BB contestant advocate Jagadeesh in trouble after his gunman opens fire in air

Bengaluru: Former Kannada Bigg Boss season 11 contestant and advocate Jagadeesh landed in trouble after his gunman opened fire in air to threaten a group who were attacking the former. The incident happened in Kodigehalli area on Friday night. The gun license was issued to use the weapon only in Uttar Pradesh. Since it was used out of the jurisdiction, the police registered a case under the Arms Act and other sections of BNS. Earlier, Jagadeesh had a fight with a few locals for blocking the road to install Goddess Annamma at Viruapakshipura. Both him and the group exchanged fisticuffs. It continued again on Friday night when the advocate was going in a SUV. The group blocked the SUV and attacked the advocate.

Geyser technician held for filming woman with hidden camera, blackmailing her

Bengaluru: A geyser technician who had secretly placed a camera while installing a new geyser and then blackmailed the house owner with her private bathing videos was nabbed and handed over to the Bannerghatta police. The technician Murali, a resident of CK Palya was caught by the members of a youth organisation and handed over to the police on Friday. The suspect was allegedly sexually harassing the victim for the last 16 months by sending her private photos to her WhatsApp number. He used these private pictures to threaten her, warning he would share it with her husband. On Friday, he called the victim to come near Electronics City bus stand. The mobile phone of the suspect has been seized by the police.

Former Minister and BJP MLC A H Vishwanath slammed the state government for taking an ordinance route to use Bangalore Palace ground land for the widening of the Palace Road

LAW SOON TO STOP HARASSMENT BY MICROLENDERS

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@ Bengaluru

TAKING note of incidents of alleged harassment by microfinance companies, the state government on Saturday decided to enact a stringent law soon through an ordinance to safeguard the interests of genuine borrowers.

Chief Minister Siddaramaiah announced this decision after a high-level meeting with representatives from microfinance companies and RBI officials. Law and Parliamentary Affairs Minister HK Patil, Deputy Chief Minister DK Shivakumar, Home Minister Dr G Parameshwara and Revenue Minister Krishna Byre Gowda attended the meeting.

Siddaramaiah told reporters that the new law will protect the interests of borrowers. The government will study the law enacted by Andhra Pradesh to control microfinance companies and other lenders.

"The Union government has prepared a draft to ban unregulated lending. Consultations will be held in this regard and action will be taken to protect people, especially farmers, who have fallen into the debt trap. The Union government will be urged to enact effective laws to rein in microfinance companies and other lenders," the CM said.

"The RBI has given permission to charge up to 17.07% interest on loans. However, some finance companies charge between 20 and 28% interest on loans. Similarly, three loans should be given to a family. But this norm is being violated by disbursing 4 to 5 loans," he said.

Stating that nobody could lend money without a licence, the CM said helplines will be set up at deputy commissioners' offices across the state, where complaints can be filed.

"Existing money lending laws will be amended and a new one enacted. Views of office-bearers of the microfinance companies' association and RBI officials will be obtained. We don't say don't lend, we don't say don't recover. But borrowers should not be harassed. The government will step in to protect the interests of borrowers," Siddaramaiah said.

He said the RBI guidelines on loan recovery should be followed. Lenders should not go for loan recovery after 5pm. Outsourcing of loan recovery through agents, especially rowdies and goons, will not be allowed. Police will take suo motu action and file FIRs.

"We have instructed the police department to file complaints or take up suo motu cases if lenders recover loans through rowdies or goons, or if it is done in a disrespectful manner," he said.

Siddu pulls up microfinance firms over illegal loan recovery tactics

CHIEF Minister Siddaramaiah on Saturday took the representatives of microfinance companies to task for recovering loans through illegal means.

At a high-level meeting here, Siddaramaiah also took RBI officials to task for not acting against the microfinance companies for harassing people, especially farmers, for not clearing their loans. He sought to know what action they have taken to cancel the licences of microfinance companies which had extended loans in violation of RBI rules and regulations.

Slamming the representatives of microfinance companies for using goons to recover loans, he questioned them whether they had taken permission from courts to seal the houses of borrowers.

"Did you explain the terms and conditions of the RBI to borrowers in their native language? Why did you give additional loans to the same borrowers without considering their repayment capacity? Why is Aadhaar KYC not done before giving loans? You are giving loans to the same borrowers over and again to boost your business. When you are unable to recover loans, you resort to illegal actions. Our government will not tolerate this," he warned them.

EXPRESS ILLUSTRATION

He said, "Your records show that the same borrower has taken loans by giving different ID cards. What system are you following to prevent this?"

The representatives said that the companies, which had obtained RBI licences, did not resort to recovery of loans through illegal means. Only those without licences harassed borrowers.

Taking exception to this, ministers Krishna Byre Gowda, HK Patil and DK Shivakumar said those who had licences also harassed borrowers.

"We have received a report in this regard. To safeguard the interests of poor borrowers, action should be taken against the MDs of microfinance companies that violated the rules," the ministers said.

Referring to the alleged high-handedness against women and elderly people, Siddaramaiah said he would not tolerate this and warned that stringent action would be taken against the errant companies.

Special court issues notice to CM in defamation case

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@ Bengaluru

A SPECIAL court in the city issued a notice to Chief Minister Siddaramaiah on Saturday on a private complaint filed by an activist on charges of defamatory statements against him.

The special court for the trial of criminal cases against sitting and former MPs/MLAs (triable by magistrate) issued the notice after hearing the complaint filed by TJ Abraham. "As per the proviso to Section 223 of BNSS, 2023, before taking cognisance, it is necessary to hear the accused. Hence, issue notice to the accused," the court said, while adjourning the hearing to February 3.

Abraham filed the complaint for the offence punishable under Section 356(1)(2) of BNSS, 2023, against Siddaramaiah, who allegedly made a defamatory statement against him after the Governor Thawaarchand Gehlot issued a notice to Siddaramaiah on Abraham's petition seeking consent to probe alleged irregularities in the allotment of 14 compensatory sites to BM Parvathy, Siddaramaiah's wife.

HC adjourns hearing

On Saturday, the Karnataka High Court adjourned to March 22 the hearing of appeals filed by Chief Minister Siddaramaiah and Devaraju, who sold the land to the brother-in-law of Siddaramaiah, against the order passed by the single judge upholding the consent given by Governor Thawaarchand Gehlot to probe alleged irregularities in the allotment of 14 compensatory sites to BM Parvathy, wife of Siddaramaiah.

Considering the request made by the counsel of Siddaramaiah for adjournment and subsequently agreed by the counsel of other parties for adjournment, the division bench of Chief Justice NV Anjaria and Justice MI Arun adjourned the hearing.

Plea seeking CBI probe to be heard tomorrow

The single judge of the high court will further hear the petition filed by activist Snehamayi Krishna seeking a CBI probe into the MUDA case on Monday.

I will be Cong's CM candidate in 2028: Satish

Belagavi: Public Works Minister Satish Jarkiholi on Saturday said they will bring the Congress to power in the state again in 2028. "I will claim the post of chief minister in 2028. There is no change in our stance. It is everyone's responsibility to bring the party to power. I have already said that I am the CM candidate for 2028, but I did not say that only I will become CM," he told reporters after unveiling of a statue of Dr BR Ambedkar in Hukkeri Town. He said it is up to the high command to make me CM or not. "Everyone will have to take responsibility for bringing the Congress to power. I am also a part and participant in it." ENS

Union minister reviews EPFO performance

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@Bengaluru

UNION Minister for Labour and Employment Mansukh Mandaviya on Saturday conducted a virtual review meeting with Karnataka officials to assess the performance of the Employees' Provident Fund Organisation (EPFO).

The meeting was attended by Sumita Dawra, Secretary for Labour and Employment;Ramesh Krishnamurthi, Central PF Commissioner; and officials from 21 zonal and 140 regional offices. The review primarily focused on improving claim settlement efficiency, reducing rejections, activating Universal Account Numbers (UAN) and expediting Pension on Higher Wages (PoHW) cases.

Release ₹5.3kcr for Upper Bhadra: CM

DCM seeks financial aid for critical infra projects

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@Bengaluru

CHIEF Minister Siddaramaiah has appealed to Prime Minister Narendra Modi to direct the ministries of Finance and Jal Shakti to extend central assistance of Rs 5,300 crore for the Upper Bhadra Project under the PMKSY-AIBP (Accelerated Irrigation Benefits Programme) and consider suitable provision in the upcoming 2025-26 Union Budget.

In a letter to the PM, Siddaramaiah stated that the ongoing project in Central Karnataka envisages providing drip irrigation to an area of 2,25,515 hectares in Chickmagalur, Chitradurga, Tumakuru and Davanagere districts and providing water for filling 367 minor irrigation tanks in these districts for groundwater recharge.

The CM stated that the high-powered steering committee and the Public Investment Board, under the Chairmanship of Finance Secretary & Secretary (Expenditure), Ministry of Finance, GoI, have recommended its inclusion in the National Project Scheme.

"In the Union Budget for the year 2023-24, Rs 5,300 crore was announced as central assistance for Upper Bhadra Project. The process for inclusion of the Upper Bhadra Project in the National Project Scheme is delayed and the progress of the project is hampered due to non-release of central assistance. To accelerate the progress of the project, it is essential to release the central assistance already announced in the Union Budget," the CM stated.

AHEAD of the Union budget on February 1, Deputy Chief Minister DK Shivakumar sought financial assistance from the Centre for major infrastructure projects in Bengaluru, including the tunnel road project.

With a population nearing 1.5 crore, the city urgently requires major infrastructure projects to sustain its growth and maintain its status as the Silicon Valley of India, the DyCM stated in a letter to Union Finance Minister Nirmala Sitharaman.

The state government is seeking financial assistance for the tunnel road project and elevated road along with the Metro viaduct (double decker stretch), flyovers, roads in buffer areas and implementation of the Peripheral Ring Road/ Bengaluru Business Corridor and providing additional drinking water supply to Bengaluru.

The DyCM stated that the government proposes constructing underground vehicular tunnels to address the city's traffic congestion as widening existing roads is challenging due to land scarcity and acquisition difficulties.

The North to South corridor from Esteem Mall near Hebbal to Silk Board Junction near HSR Layout, about 18.5 km, at an approximate cost of Rs 15,000 crore, and the East to West corridor from KR Puram Circle to Nayandahalli Junction in Mysuru Road covering 28.5 km at an approximate cost of Rs 25,000 crore are the two corridors.

The state government has agreed to provide Rs 19,000 crore VGF (Viability Gap Funding) for this project and the draft DPR prepared is published for the opinion of the general public, Shivakumar stated.

The DyCM stated that following the successful implementation of a double-decker road along the Metro Yellow Line from Silk Board Junction to Ragigudda, the state government proposes extending the same model for two corridors -- JP Nagar to Hebbal (via Outer Ring Road West) and Hosahalli to Kadabagere (Via Magadi Road East) at an estimated additional cost of Rs.8,916 crore.

Shivakumar stated that a prefeasibility survey by M/s Altinok Consulting Engineering Ink recommends constructing 17 major flyovers spanning 99.50 km across 11 high-traffic corridors. This project is estimated to cost Rs 12,000 crore and will address major traffic issues in the city, he stated.

BJP NEEDS TO DEFUSE CRISIS TO BE EFFECTIVE OPPN

POLITICAL RADAR
RAMU PATIL
Assistant Resident Editor
ramu@newindianexpress.com

AFTER AICC president Mallikarjun Kharge sternly warned Congress leaders to "shut up and discharge the responsibilities assigned to them", the public airing of views on internal issues has stopped. It could be a temporary period of calm before the leadership issues resurface. For now, Kharge's diktat stopped the ruling party from drifting towards chaos and impacting the administration.

On the other hand, there seems to be no end to the BJP's internal squabbles. Implosions continue to rock the party despite its leadership's efforts to end it.

In Karnataka — which the BJP considers its gateway to the South — the party is facing a series of crises, with too many fissures. After its legislators Basangouda Patil Yatnal, Ramesh Jarkiholi and team raised a banner of revolt against the state leadership headed by BY Vijayendra, a public spat between close friends-turned-foes B Sriramulu and Gali Janardhan Reddy exposed the vulnerabilities within the party. The party's top guns from Ballari went ballistic, making serious accusations against each other, prompting BJP national president JP Nadda's attempts to assuage Ramulu.

All hell broke loose after the party's state core committee meeting earlier this week. Former minister Sriramulu was upset with BJP General Secretary and state in-charge Radha Mohan Das Agarwal's comments about him not doing enough in the Sandur bypolls, which BJP lost. During the meeting, he is said to have countered Agarwal but was upset with the comments and more so, for state leaders not coming to his defence.

Sriramulu went public with the developments in a close-door meeting and even accused mining baron-turned-politician Reddy of conspiring against him and misleading the leadership. In return, Reddy dropped a bombshell, saying DyCM and KPCC president DK Shivakumar was trying to get Sriramulu into his party fold to snub PWD minister Satish Jarkiholi, a prominent ST leader in Congress. Shivakumar rubbished the allegations but admitted that before the assembly polls, he had invited Ramulu and around 50 other leaders to the party but the BJP leader had refused the invitation.

Sriramulu, a prominent ST community leader, and Reddy played a big role in strengthening the party in Ballari and neighbouring districts, especially after the 1999 Lok Sabha polls that witnessed a high-voltage contest between Sonia Gandhi and Sushma Swaraj. In the run-up to the 2018 assembly polls, Sriramulu was almost projected as BJP's Deputy Chief Ministerial candidate. In that election, he was fielded from two assembly segments — Molakalmuru in Chitradurga district and Badami in Bagalkote district. He won in Molakalmuru and put up a formidable fight against Congress leader and Chief Minister Siddaramaiah in Badami. Siddaramaiah won with a narrow margin of 1,696 votes. In 2023 and 2024, Sriramulu unsuccessfully contested Assembly and Lok Sabha seats from Ballari Rural and Ballari LS seats, respectively.

Despite his electoral setbacks, the BJP knows his strengths and cannot afford another setback if he deserts the party. That was probably why the party president got on a call with him hours after he went public with his displeasure. Even as the party defuses the current crisis, the big challenge before the central leadership would be to take all leaders and groups into confidence in the state president's election.

Given the number of party's elected representatives and prominent leaders who attended the recent meeting called by Vijayendra, a majority of the leaders seem to be backing his leadership, but the challenge will be to build a consensus to avoid elections as that could further widen the gaps.

Many believe the state president is likely to be elected unanimously as unsavory competition and internal rivalry could be detrimental to the party.

Some senior leaders in the party also expressed concern over Sriramulu going public about deliberations in the core committee, which is meant to frankly discuss all issues in the interest of the party. According to them, workers are concerned about the party's image taking a beating and want its leaders to effectively counter the state government on various issues.

However, party leaders are optimistic. Senior BJP leader and MLC N Ravi Kumar says there will be problems in all the parties and they are confident of taking corrective measures to be a more effective and responsible opposition against the state government that has failed on all fronts.

Perhaps, like in Congress, a stern message and decisive action from the central leadership could put BJP Karnataka back on track to play the role of an effective opposition by taking up the issues that matter to the people.

A FIRST? GOVERNOR ACCUSES TN GOVT IN R-DAY ADDRESS

Says key indicators of TN are worrying, state is on a 'declining curve'

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @ Chennai

TAMIL NADU GOVERNOR RN Ravi has levelled various charges against the State Government in his customary Republic Day address. Sources said perhaps it is the first time in history that a governor in the country is making accusations against the government in the Republic Day address.

In his address, the governor said key indicators of the state are worrying and that Tamil Nadu is on a 'declining curve'. He alleged the autonomy of the universities in state has "eroded to such an extent that it is not the university syndicates but the state secretariat that runs the varsities."

Citing the absence of vice-chancellors in many universities, Ravi said the status of the curriculum and syllabus of the varsities, which should be under the purview of university academic councils, are now being dictated by the State Government Council for Higher Education.

The governor also alleged "an increasing menace of drugs", citing reports indicating the presence of powerful drug syndicates, linked to international cartels, operating in the state. "While some drug dealers have been arrested, the kingpins remain elusive," he said and warned that the escalating drug trade poses a serious threat to the future generation.

Ravi said he is "concerned over the continued dehumanisation of Dalits in Tamil Nadu" and added reports of caste-based discrimination, including instances of Dalits being denied access to public spaces and subjected to physical violence, have been alarmingly frequent. On the economic front, he said the state is in a "declining position" as a destination for private investment. Once a leader in attracting foreign direct investment (FDI), Ravi said, Tamil Nadu now trails behind other states like Karnataka, Gujarat, and Maharashtra. He also highlighted Tamil Nadu's high suicide rate, saying at over 26 per lakh population, the rate is more than double the national average, and it is a reflection of the state's growing socio-economic distress.

He also pointed out the alleged discovery of several terrorist modules and sleeper cells, some of which linked to international terror networks operating within the state, by the NIA.

TN GOVT DECIDES TO SKIP THE GOVERNOR'S 'AT HOME' RECEPTION FOR REPUBLIC DAY

CHENNAI: The Tamil Nadu government has decided to boycott the governor's At Home reception set to take place on Republic Day at Raj Bhavan on Sunday morning, according to sources from the secretariat. The decision was a result of the continuing friction between the DMK-led government and Governor R N Ravi, which came to a head again earlier this month with Ravi walking out of the Assembly without delivering his customary address, sources added. While an official announcement regarding the boycott is yet to be made, sources said that, "There are several unresolved issues including the governor delaying approval of key bills, non-appointment of vice-chairmen for state universities and his controversial remarks on TN policies. With this in mind, the state has decided to skip the Republic Day reception." Soon after the Republic Day parade in Marina on Sunday, CM MK Stalin is set to leave for Madurai to meet the residents of Arittapatti following the centre's decision to annul the auction of the tungsten block. While the CM missed the R-Day reception last year too, five ministers and the then Chief Secretary Shiv Das Meena participated in the event on behalf of the state government.

Our elders, including me, failed the country: NRN

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @ Tumakuru

IT giant Infosys co-founder N R Narayana Murthy regretted that the country's performance on almost all the indices remained poor "Successive governments tried hard for the past 77 years, but somehow the problem proved elusive. Our elders have failed the country and the youth are in a unique situation to shoulder the responsibility of uplifting India," he said while delivering the 'Prerana Upanyasa' lecture at Tumkur University.

He said the government has been rightly providing free ration to 820 million citizens, about 60% of the population. "This is equal to the entire population of Europe. Germany and Japan lost the world war and worked hard and rebuilt their countries. But our elders, including me, failed India and the youth are the only hope," he said. He advised the youth to leverage their performance to ensure access to health and education for poor children to take the country to a better position as Prime Minister Narendra Modi is aspiring to do. Murthy, however, said India could taste some positive success because of the initiatives of the private sector and the government as the world is now looking at it for solutions. "The world which did not care about India 30 years ago is not expecting it to perform well to solve the problems quickly and contribute to various responsibilities," he said.

Murthy said he overcame the falsehood of socialism and communism that he was exposed to in India and experimented with capitalism after his return from France that paid huge dividends.

DOGE FOR INDIA: BEEN THERE, DODGED THAT

THE THIRD EYE

SHANKKAR AIYAR
Author of The Gated Republic, Aadhaar: A Biometric History of India's 12 Digit Revolution, and Accidental India
(shankkar.aiyar@gmail.com)

A few weeks back, a young entrepreneur—a recent returnee from the US mulling about his ghar wapsi—observed that every hope one harbours seems to depend on politics and political connections. A large number of educated Indians subscribe to the Reaganesque thesis that government is not the solution to our problem, but is the problem itself. Unsurprisingly, Donald Trump's decision to install a department of government efficiency (DOGE) under Elon Musk—which initially aimed to slash the cost of the US government by $2 trillion—has catalysed popular imagination.

It is early days as yet, and we must wait to see how the Musk plan pans out beyond the speculation on why the idea's co-author Vivek Ramaswamy left or was edged out. While one may doubt whether the trillion-dollar targets will be met, there is no dispute that it will bring focus on how the government works or not. Be that as it may, Mr Ghar Wapsi believes India needs a DOGE.

Without going into an archaeological dig, one can review the many DOGEs that Indian governments constituted in recent history and what came of the recommendations.

This February marks 25 years of the setting up of the Expenditure Reforms Commission by the Atal Bihari Vajpayee government. Led by K P Geethakrishnan, the commission addressed "growth of non-developmental expenditure" and "downsizing the government". The commission examined 36 ministries and submitted 10 reports that ran over 1,300 pages. Pramod Mahajan had quipped, "Everyone is for reforms till it's about their ministry."

Suffice to say that three decades after liberalisation, India continues to have a ministry each for steel, telecom, shipping, textiles and aviation. While the number of central government employees has been more or less static at around 35 lakh, the wage bill has shot up 10-fold from ₹31,945 crore in 2001-02 to ₹3.24 lakh crore in 2024-25.

Post 1991, Indian governments have promised to shrink their footprint in business. In August 1996, the government instituted a Disinvestment Commission chaired by G V Ramakrishna to recommend ways to monetise assets. It submitted 10 reports between 1997 and 2002. Other committees followed, including one under the Niti Aayog. The net result: when the Disinvestment Commission submitted its final report, India was home to 250 public sector enterprises, of which 234 were operational. In 2024, India was home to 448 central PSEs—272 of them operational. The cumulative losses since 2004 have crossed ₹2.7 lakh crore.

To recast the structure of government, the Vajpayee government instituted the National Commission to Review the Working of the Constitution led by Justice M N Venkatachaliah. This commission delivered 58 recommendations involving amendments to the Constitution, 86 relating to legislative measures and the rest for executive action. One interesting recommendation urged the government to "specialise some of the generalists and generalise some of the specialists". The outcome is manifest in the delivery of public services and administration of justice—India has over 5.16 crore cases pending in courts.

In August 2005, the UPA government appointed the Second Administrative Reforms Commission under Veerappa Moily. This commission delivered 15 reports spanning the spectrum from human capital, crisis management, ethics and state capacity to local governance, terrorism, e-governance and structural inadequacies—for all three tiers of government. The reports were parked with a group of ministers in 2007. In 2009, the government told parliament the recommendations were being "processed for consideration and decision".

In 2014, Narendra Modi introduced the concept of "maximum governance, minimum government". The 2014 budget invoked the idea and appointed an Expenditure Management Commission under Bimal Jalan. The report is not public; details of the implementation of its recommendations are not known either. Interestingly, four years later, Jalan was asked to head a committee to recommend a rejig of the transfer of excess capital from the RBI to the government to fund expenditure.

This week, the government announced the creation of the 8th Pay Commission. The terms of reference for pay commissions seek "to promote efficiency, accountability and responsibility in work culture". It is unclear how that has been factored and implemented in the recommendations. A sentence from the 7th Pay Commission perhaps offers a window to the challenged mindscape. It simply said: "There is no blueprint for enhancing efficiency and productivity in the government."

The question is not whether India needs a DOGE. The need to spur change in governance cannot be overstated. Take tax reforms. Its journey begins with the 1993 Chelliah Committee, traverses the 2002 Kelkar Committee, slips past the direct tax code bill of 2009, and is a frequent visitor in budget speeches. In 2025, a modern tax code is yet in the making.

The quest for efficiency in government is as old as the republic, and has been underlined by a series of commissions and committees. Indeed, India's journey from penury to the promise of prosperity—chronicled in my book Accidental India—is defined by one constant: the arrival of change in the wake of crises.

There are murmurs of hope about an efficiency initiative in the budget. The litany of history speaks for itself. Very simply, India has been there and dodged that!

AUDIT DOLLAR-SEEKING SALLIES OF CMs

POWER & POLITICS

NETWORK is now the new net worth for the Indian political class. Dollar chasing is the most popular obsession of Union ministers and chief ministers who are spreading their carbon footprint, landing in Washington, Tokyo, Singapore, Seoul, London, Paris and Bonn with hype and hope. Each year starts with netas making a beeline for the super-expensive ski town Davos in Switzerland, where billionaires gather to dictate with money the policy of nations. Our politicians may be divided by political identity, but are united by one lust: get foreign money for their states in the name of development.

Last week, five Union ministers and three chief ministers, along with 100-odd babus in tow, were seen confabulating with global barons, lobbying for lucre in the salubrious spaces of the World Economic Forum: visits that cost around ₹50 lakh per person for membership fees and other expenses.

Davos isn't their only port of call. Ever since Narendra Modi became prime minister in 2014, he, his ministers and BJP CMs, along with their highly competitive counterparts from other parties, have been frequently tapping the world's coffers to attract investment. Modi, when he was running Gujarat, was one of the most active chief ministers wooing foreign capital. There is hardly a CM who hasn't wooed friendly governments, offering their fiefdoms as money-making markets. Vociferously advertising their foreign trips is their financial hobby.

A glance at some recent junkets.

● Devendra Fadnavis, Maharashtra: A four-time visitor to Davos as CM, he was given a traditional Indian welcome at Zurich airport by the Indian ambassador, and celebrated his fourth day with a gloating post on X: "It's Jan 22, a very historic day. Jai Shri Ram to everyone from #Davos! Maharashtra is making its mark here. ₹6.25 lakh crore of MoUs (memorandums of understanding) in one day, reflect the unwavering trust in Maharashtra's growth potential under the leadership of PM Narendra Modi. Looking forward to do more today." Last year, his predecessor Eknath Shinde, on his first visit to the ski resort, had claimed that MoUs worth Rs 3,53,000 crore had been signed. Before that, Uddhav Thackeray had attended the WEF in 2022 to promote health tech and financial services.

● A Revanth Reddy, Telangana: It just took four months since his inauguration for the Congress CM to make globetrotting in search of investment his mission of choice. His latest sojourn to Europe included Davos. He signed off on new investment deals worth ₹40,000 crore. Earlier in January, Team Reddy concluded its first official US tour on a high note, securing investment worth ₹31,500 crore. Then Reddy took off to South Korea, where companies signed agreements to invest ₹4,500 crore—Youngone Corporation plans a fashion city in Hyderabad, Hyundai will set up a mega automotive testing centre, and other multinationals have promised to open their wallets to manufacture cosmetics, pharma and LED screens.

SOURAV ROY

● Mamata Banerjee, West Bengal: Didi usually avoids foreign jaunts, but deploys her officials to seek foreign investment. However, in March 2024 she visited Spain, seeking partnerships for renewable energy and manufacturing. In May 2024, she went to Dubai to engage with the Indian diaspora and potential investors in the real estate and finance sectors.

● Bhupendra Patel, Gujarat: His flight ticket in April 2024 was to Japan. Charter: to promote the Vibrant Gujarat Global Summit, target Japanese investments in the automotive sector, renewable energy and smart cities.

● Yogi Adityanath, Uttar Pradesh: Though not a frequent financial flyer earlier, one of the most popular CMs has decided to launch a Get FDI campaign. During his second term, Yogi visited the UK in March 2024 to explore potential investments in defence, infrastructure and education. He also flew to the UAE in May 2024 to meet business leaders and discuss opportunities in logistics and tourism.

● Mohan Charan Majhi, Odisha: Less than a year on the job, he landed in Singapore in November 2024 to bag investments in sectors ranging from semiconductor, green energy and ship recycling to container manufacturing, and ask for funds for port-led industrial development in his state.

● Mohan Yadav, Madhya Pradesh: His boarding pass said England and Germany during his first foreign jaunt in November 2024. During a seven-day hectic tour accompanied by key officials, he claimed to have wrangled proposals worth over ₹78,000 crore from various multinationals.

● M K Stalin, Tamil Nadu: Accompanied by senior officials, he spent 17 days in August 2024 in the US, meeting potential investors and leading members of the Tamil diaspora to convince them to put their money in his state. Two months earlier, he had participated in business forums in New York and California, focusing on tech start-ups and electronics manufacturers. On his return, Stalin declared that 19 MoUs worth ₹7,618 crore had been signed.

● Bhajan Lal Sharma, Rajasthan: His investment itinerary included Japan, South Korea, Germany and the UK in 2024 to attract communities and entrepreneurs to invest in Rajasthan. Accompanied by top civil servants and joined by key entrepreneurs in the countries on his map, he made hi-tech presentations that tom-tommed his sarkar's business-friendly policies.

● Himanta Biswa Sarma, Assam: His destinations of desire this month were Tokyo and Seoul. Target: wooing wallets for Advantage Assam Summit. Lollies: locational, strategic and policy advantages of the northeastern state.

● N Chandrababu Naidu, Andhra Pradesh: A frequent visitor to Davos since 1995, his high-profile presence at the summit was a highlight this year too. He and his son Lokesh have landed in numerous global capitals to lasso investments; previously for undivided Andhra Pradesh and later for the truncated state that was starved of funds and multinational presence. He held meetings with CEOs and chairpersons of Coca-Cola, LG, Carlsberg and Cisco. Elated, he posted on X: "Back in 1995, IT; now in 2025, AI. A pleasure reconnecting with Bill Gates after many years."

The global forays by CMs were mostly from BJP-ruled states who had the mission to promote Modiplomacy and Modinomics. While not all objectives were met immediately, these high-profile, premium visits may have served a significant purpose in branding Indian states internationally and highlighting their economic potential in various sectors.

However, the outcomes of such visits have been challenged. According to unofficial estimates, various CMs have claimed that MoUs worth over ₹50 lakh crore have been signed over the past 10 years. But how much of that sum has been actualised is a matter of speculation, since a fat parcel of pacts still remains on paper. Both the Centre and the states must do a holistic audit of the outcomes of all visits made at public expense. Just burning air-miles could mean results are still up in the air, although their promoters have landed on the populist terra firma of propaganda and pride. Putting others' money where their mouth is serves little purpose.

AS I write this column, reports are streaming in that Saif Ali Khan has recorded his police statement on the stabbing and attempted robbery case. But a lot else has transpired on the sidelines from the fateful morning of January 16, when the attempt took place, till date—in our imagination, conversations, calls, texts, Instagram reels and media shows.

Despite a statement from Kareena Kapoor Khan "respectfully and humbly" requesting "the media and paparazzi to refrain from relentless speculation and coverage", it is exactly what has come to pass. The Khan family hasn't been left alone by the unrelenting coverage going overboard in its quest for ratings, as every other living room in the country has been waiting to know each minute detail in the chain of events.

New paradigms have been set over the last 10 days of saturation coverage—from the screams of his younger son Jehangir's nanny to confronting the intruder, from the stabbings and a piece of knife stuck in the spine to the surgery at Lilavati Hospital, from the auto driver who rushed him to the hospital to his health insurance package, from the alleged Bangladeshi migrant criminal to its fallout on Indo-Bangladesh relations, and the mismatch between the intruder seen on CCTV and the person arrested.

There have been some laughable "revelations"—one claimed it was Khans' child Taimur who took his dad to the hospital—and an inconceivably shoddy job of rounding up random suspects and naming them before even a preliminary enquiry.

As Kareena said, in a challenging time when they have been trying to process things, such "constant scrutiny and attention are not only overwhelming, but also pose a significant risk to safety". She urged that their boundaries be respected and they be given space to heal and cope.

It reminded me of a column by media critic Shailaja Bajpai where, in the context of an unfolding tragedy being covered on TV, she had written how the omnipresent cameras wouldn't allow people to grieve or even die in solitude, that in the times of media overkill we are left with no space to take shelter, not even in the privacy of our graves.

Yes, this circus isn't new in town. We witnessed a similar free-for-all following the untimely deaths of Sridevi and Sushant Singh Rajput. In the Saif case, it's also reflective of how stardom is getting recast in the times of the overwhelming presence of social media and how stars truly have nowhere to hide, even in the proverbial ivory towers they are supposed to inhabit.

Much of it has to do with their own choices. They have consciously decided on spreading themselves thin, letting go of the mystique of yore. New-age celebrities are willingly available for the gaze of all. They have deliberately courted the paparazzi—be it at airports and family dinners, or weddings and funerals—as though being out of sight for even a moment would mean out of mind forever. Ironically, it's precisely this self-positioning that has deprived them of refuge from attention even when they truly need it.

We can blame the paparazzi for intruding too much into the lives of stars, or the stars who invite such gaze. But we, the people, are as much to blame for frenzied speculation on the attack on Saif Ali Khan

But why point a self-righteous finger at the media or the stars, when the voyeur, detective, judge and jury all live in each one of us. It's human to be curious, but only till it doesn't get extreme and obsessive. Some of the comments, memes and posts on social media have been downright offensive, particularly the toxic ones questioning Kareena being at the party and returning home drunk. I am not even coming to the crass ones with political and religious overtones, or those wondering how Saif could have recouped so quickly after the surgery. What has been on display is a pernicious sense of entitlement and resentment for the lives of others—in this case the rich and famous—and deriving vicarious pleasure out of their misfortune.

We have been cruel scavengers one moment, Doubting Thomases the other, and conspiracy theorists the next. Is Bollywood under some kind of threat? Why target the Queen of Suburbs, Bandra? Is there any link here with Baba Siddiqui murder?

We have been conducting our own investigations and media trials despite the lack of clues, motive or evidence, going only by assumption, speculation and perceived gaps in information. "It doesn't add up," even I couldn't resist chiming in on a Whatsapp group, channelling my inner Nancy Drew and Miss Marple, though I'd be too old and too young to be either.

No wonder, true crime series and reality shows are thriving on OTT platforms. But when the real world can get so wonderfully lurid, what competition can plain vanilla fiction offer? Now waiting for the next episode in the ongoing saga.

There is always the possibility of a direct link between higher education and the job market diluting the quality of the former and the dynamics of the later. It might be more advisable to separate a job skills stream from other higher education streams after the 10th standard. Communication skills and transferable abilities, rather than conventional courses and traditional exams, should be the life-breath of a dynamic system.

Chennai trains

The work of connecting Velachery and St Thomas Mount on Chennai's MRTS is pending for years, even after a court clearance. The unused stations between the two points are now a no-go area because of illicit activities. Even if railways double the fare, the public will not question it as the other modes are far costlier. If the tracks are maintained and number of trains increased in the MMCC-Tiruttani and Chennai Central Suburban-Gummidipundi sections, the train journey will be far more comfortable than by road.

Cholera outbreak

Almost 78 years have passed since independence. Many things have improved in these decades. But even after all this, it's sad that cholera is spreading in Kanas tehsil of Puri district in Odisha. Somewhere, Bhubaneswar's drainage that joins the Daya river is polluting the stream, resulting in the outbreak of cholera. We hope the government will take this matter seriously.

Droupadi Murmu hails govt's ongoing efforts to eliminate remnants of a colonial mindset and 3 new criminal laws

ONOE can prevent policy paralysis: Prez

RAJESH KUMAR THAKUR @ New Delhi

PRESIDENT Droupadi Murmu on Saturday said the 'One Nation One Election' move has the potential to enhance good governance in the country by preventing policy paralysis, checking resource diversion, and alleviating financial burdens on the state.

In her address to the nation ahead of the 76th Republic Day, Murmu said, "A measure that promises to redefine the terms of good governance is the Bill introduced in Parliament to synchronise election schedules in the country. The 'One Nation One Election' can plan promote consistency in governance, prevent policy paralysis, mitigate resource diversion, and reduce the financial burden, apart from other benefits."

Describing the Constitution as a living document, she said that the statute has civic values and provides the ultimate foundation of the collective identity as Indians. "Justice, liberty, equality, and fraternity are not just modern concepts; they have always been integral to our civilisational heritage," she asserted.

Murmu highlighted the inclusive nature of the Constituent Assembly, which represented diverse communities across the nation, including 15 women members who played pivotal roles in shaping the country's democratic framework. "When women's equality was a distant goal in many parts of the world, Indian women were actively engaged in the nation's destiny," she said.

Murmu emphasised the government's ongoing efforts to "eliminate remnants of a colonial mindset that have lingered in the country for decades" and cited the replacement of the British-era criminal laws with three new modern laws. Terming replacement of Indian Penal Code as a noteworthy decision, she said the new criminal laws put delivery of justice instead of punishment at centre of the criminal justice system.

Murmu also hailed the government's move on linguistic diversity. "India is a hub of linguistic diversity. In order to conserve as well as celebrate the richness, the government has recognised Assamese, Bengali, Marathi, Pali and Prakirit as classical languages," she said.

Murmu said the results of increased investment and efforts by the government in the education sector have been more than encouraging. "It is, after all, our young generation that is going to shape the India of tomorrow. Education, in turn, shapes these young minds. Therefore, the government has increased its investment in education and made every effort to improve every parameter related to this sector. The results so far are more than encouraging," she said.

"India stands 6th in terms of intellectual property filings in the world. We have consistently improved our ranking in the Global Innovation Index, moving from 48th in 2020 to 39th in 2024," she said. She also said that India's growing confidence has been reflected in sports and games with successes obtained by players on international levels.

The President said contributions of freedom fighters, including Mahatma Gandhi, will be remembered by generations.

The President approved gallantry awards to 93 Armed Forces and Central Armed Police Forces (CAPF) personnel, including 11 posthumously.

Of the 14 Shaurya Chakras, nine have gone to the Indian Army and two to the Indian Air Force. Three have been awarded to the other forces, including two to the CAPF personnel.

Other awards include one Bar to Sena Medal; 66 Sena Medals, two Nao Sena Medal and eight Vayu Sena Medals.

250 ASHA workers invited to R-Day event

KAVITA BAJELI-DATT @ New Delhi

AROUND 250 ASHA (Accredited Social Health Activists) workers are special guests at the 76th Republic Day Ceremony on Sunday.

To commemorate the outstanding contributions of ASHA workers, who form the backbone of India's health schemes, the Central government has invited around 250 ASHA workers, along with their spouses, from various states as special guests.

ASHA workers are among the 10,000 special invitees, who will be witnessing the Republic Day Parade at Kartavya Path on January 26. School students are also among the invitees.

Interacting with the ASHA workers at an event on Saturday, Union health secretary Punya Salila Srivastava appreciated their immense contribution to the society and highlighted that "notable success in the TB elimination mission is significantly attributed to the grassroots level work done by them."

The invitation is aimed at uplifting the morale. of these dedicated health workers, she said.

Connecting dots: 4G in 360 Vibrant Villages by June, says Shah

The Kartavya Path on the eve of the Republic Day | SHEKHAR YADAV

MUKESH RANJAN @ New Delhi

UNION Home Minister Amit Shah on Saturday said that 360 'Vibrant Villages' along India's land borders would have 4G connectivity by June this year. He was interacting with special guests from those villages — including sarpanchs, deputy sarpanchs, women entrepreneurs and students, who have been invited to attend the Republic day parade on Sunday.

Shah added that out of the 662 'Vibrant Villages', 474 of them will have on-grid and 127 villages will have off-grid electrification. He said these initiatives are part of the government's mission to transform the villages through "a bottom to top approach".

Shah underlined that these initiatives focus not only on building essential infrastructure like roads, railways, and air connectivity, but also to reduce the 'Dil ki Doori' between Delhi and such villages.

Shah discussed with them the significant strides made under the initiative, underscoring that it marks the beginning of a shift in mindset and approach towards rural development.

"The Vibrant Village programme is the beginning of a change in mindset. If we go into the details of this programme — roads are being constructed that lessen the physical distance between two places and also enhance communication. Roads, railways and air connectivity will also be there. But, most importantly, this programme is more about reducing 'Dil ki doori' and 'Mann ki doori' between Delhi and your villages," Shah said.

N SURENDRAN

THE STAR-GAZER BEHIND SPADEX

BOSKY KHANNA

MANOJ PAROIKAR

AS India and the Indian Space Research Organisation (ISRO) celebrated the success of the maiden docking of two satellites SDX-01 and SDX-02 in low earth orbit in the early hours of January 16, an apparently nondescript gentleman sat proudly smiling in the background.

He was Space Docking Experiment (SpaDeX) mission project director N Surendran, who on December 31, 2024 — when the PSLV-C60 launcher lifted off with the mission from Sriharikota — had exuded confidence that the experiment would be a success. That confidence rode on the hard work under his supervision of the mission.

Coming from a humble background, the 1965-born Surendran recollects his journey from a time when he watched the moon and the stars as a little boy sitting on the beach near his house in Tuticorin (now Thoothukudi) in Tamil Nadu, to taking over as the SpaDeX project director in 2023-end.

The challenging mission under Surendran was not just about docking two satellites in space. The mission also involved the PS4-Orbital Experiment Module (POEM-4), which featured using the spent fourth stage of the Polar Synchronous Launch Vehicle, which otherwise would be wasted as space debris. POEM-4 carries 24 payloads, of which 14 are from ISRO/Department of Space centres and 10 from academia and start-ups received through Indian National Space Promotion and Authorisation Centre. All experiments on this platform aim at supporting and enhancing India's future ambitious space missions.

The experiments are ongoing. The SpaDeX mission is crucial for ISRO's future projects — Chandrayaan-4 and future lunar missions, Bharatiya Antariksh Space Station, Gaganyaan manned space mission, missions to Mars and beyond.

When Surendran took over SpaDeX mission, configuration and design of the satellites was already completed, but challenging tasks like fabrication, implementation and testing were to be done. It was under him that soft docking and undocking trials were held and corrections made, which bore fruit on January 16.

In doing so, Surendran had to coordinate with a team of around 250 people and 90 project managers and heads. But he humbly says, "My previous directors and the entire team have paved the way for the success of this mission."

A tough task master, and yet a go-to person, Surendran says there are no shortcuts to success. His mantra is simple: "Hard work. There is no replacement for it. Smart working is also needed. Both go together in today's times."

Surendran was born in Tuticorin, one among four siblings, the first-generation graduates in his family. "My father P Nagarajan was an accountant in a private establishment, and ensured that all his children are well-educated irrespective of the then financial difficulties," he says.

NEWSMAKER

Studying in a Tamil medium school till Grade 10, he was the topper winning a gold medal in the board exams at St Xavier's Higher Secondary School, Tuticorin. He completed his graduation in Mechanical Engineering from the Regional Engineering College (now National Institute of Technology) in Tiruchirappalli in Mechanical Engineering with Honours and then joined ISRO at UR Rao Satellite Centre in Bengaluru in December 1987. "My first interest was always in space and science and when I learnt of the opening (in ISRO) I took it," he says.

He joined ISRO's Mechanical Integration Division of Systems Integration Group and significantly contributed to projects from IRS-1C to the recent GSAT-30. Before becoming the SpaDeX project director, Surendran was the Division Head, Mechanical Integration Division. He carries vast experience in design and development of Mechanical Ground Support Equipment, Mechanical Housings for Subsystem Packages, Assembly Integration and Testing of Spacecraft, System Engineering and Project Management.

He was awarded the ISRO Team Excellence award-2017 and Astronautical Society of India award-2019 for his overall contribution on spacecraft and related technologies.

100-yr-old freedom fighter, dhak player, yoga expert from Kuwait in Padma list

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @ New Delhi

A diverse group of unsung heroes, including a 100-year-old freedom fighter from Goa, a yoga practitioner from Kuwait, and a para athlete who won Paralympic gold medal in archery will be conferred with the Padma Shri, India's third-highest civilian honour, the government announced on Saturday ahead of the Republic Day celebrations.

Among the awardees is Shaikha AJ Al Sabah, a 48-year-old yoga practitioner from Kuwait. Shaikha, who founded Daratma, Kuwait's first licensed yoga studio, has been recognised for her contribution to promoting yoga in the Gulf region using traditional techniques.

In 2021, she also spearheaded Yomnak lil Yaman, a fundraiser for Yemeni refugees and displaced people in war-torn Yemen.

Libia Lobo Sardesai, a prominent freedom fighter from Goa, co-founded the underground radio station Voz da Liberdade (Voice of Freedom) in 1955, rallying against Portuguese rule. Her efforts in Goa's freedom movement have earned her a place among the Padma Shri awardees.

Nation builders

Other notable awardees include Nagaland farmer L Hangthing, Puducherry's instrumentalist P Datchanamoorthy, Madhya Pradesh's social entrepreneur Sally Holkar, and Marathi author Maruti Bhujangrao Chitampalli.

Another recipient, Gokul Chandra Dey, a 57-year-old dhak player from West Bengal, has been awarded the Padma Shri for breaking gender barriers in a male-dominated field. Dey trained 150 women in playing the traditional instrument, dhak, empowering them to popularise the art form.

In the list of honour is Harvinder Singh, a para archer from Haryana, who became the first Indian to win a gold medal at the 2024 Paralympic Games. Singh expressed his gratitude, calling his recognition a moment of immense pride.

"With deep gratitude and honour, I accept the gracious invitation to the at-home reception at the Rashtrapati Bhavan on January 26. It is an occasion of immense pride and privilege to be in the presence of the esteemed President of India, a symbol of our nation's unity and strength," Harvinder Singh said in an Instagram post.

Other notable awardees include Nagaland's fruit farmer L Hangthing, Puducherry's instrumentalist P Datchanamoorthy, Madhya Pradesh's social entrepreneur Sally Holkar, and Marathi author Maruti Bhujangrao Chitampalli, all of whom have made significant contributions in their respective fields.

India tops C'wealth nations in cancer cases: Lancet

KAVITA BAJELI-DATT @ New Delhi

CANCER incidence rates in India are substantially higher than any other Commonwealth nation, which saw an increase in cancer diagnosis by 35% between 2008 and 2018, according to a recent paper in Lancet Oncology.

In India, one in nine people are likely to develop cancer in their lifetime, with lung and breast cancers being the most common. Also, what is worrying is that the number of cancer cases in India is expected to rise at a rate that will surpass global averages — from 1.39 million in 2020 to 1.57 million by 2025, said co-author of the paper, Dr Bhawna Sirohi.

Almost 40% of cancer cases in India are due to rampant tobacco use, which significantly elevates the risk of lung, oral, and throat cancers. In comparison, she said that factors like poor diet and lack of physical activity cause 10% of cases.

"Cancer incidence rates in India are substantially higher than in many other Commonwealth nations, indicating major differences in health outcomes caused by a variety of socioeconomic factors," Dr Sirohi, who is the Medical Director of Vedanta Medical Research Foundation, Naya Raipur, Chhattisgarh, India.

The paper in the Lancet Oncology Commission on Cancer in the Commonwealth said that cancer diagnoses in the 56 Commonwealth nations increased by 35% between 2008 and 2018, a cause for alarm.

Highlighting the high incidences of cancer in the 56-member Commonwealth countries, which includes large countries like Australia, Canada, highly-populated countries like India, and small countries like Barbados and Brunei, the paper suggested a comprehensive roadmap to combat it.

The authors suggested establishing a Commonwealth cancer observatory to standardise and harmonise data on cancer trends, treatment, and outcomes, enhancing data-driven policymaking, implementing digital cancer registries, strengthening regional cancer care networks, and increasing financial and policy support.

The recommendations also outline strategies for sustainable funding, including taxes on harmful products, expanded health budgets, and international support to ensure equitable access to essential cancer services.

The Commonwealth Roadmap for Cancer emphasises that comprehensive cancer control scaling up may result in significant economic returns — estimated at $12 for every $1 invested — via improved health outcomes and enhanced productivity, she said.

"Governments can justify initial investments in cancer control by presenting them as critical elements to economic development, highlighting the potential for significant savings in healthcare costs, increased labour participation, and improved citizens' quality of life," she said.

Gujarat hot on Coldplay concert

Hotel room, private transportation rates skyrocket amid fan frenzy for Ahmedabad show

DILIP SINGH KSHATRIYA @ Ahmedabad

BRITISH rock band Coldplay's live concerts electrified Narendra Modi Stadium in Ahmedabad, drawing a crowd of 110,000 passionate fans from across India and beyond. However, the excitement comes with significant challenges that are testing the city's infrastructure and hospitality capabilities.

The two-night musical extravaganza starting Saturday has triggered windfall gains in Ahmedabad, with local businesses capitalising on the massive influx of fans. Hotel rates have experienced a jaw-dropping surge, transforming the city's accommodation landscape into a financial maze for concert-goers. What were once modest rooms priced at ₹1,000 per night are now commanding ₹12,000 to ₹16,000 – a staggering increase that has left many fans reeling.

Luxury accommodations have reached even more extreme pricing, with five-star hotels charging up to ₹100,000 per night, according to sources in the hospitality sector. This pricing frenzy has transformed the concert experience from an affordable musical journey to a potentially budget-breaking expedition. One disappointed fan, Nagpal, expressed frustration, saying "while Coldplay aimed to provide accessible ticket prices starting at ₹2,500, local businesses have effectively negated this gesture by inflating overall trip costs to around ₹30,000 per person."

The transportation system is equally challenged. Metro train services have extended their operating hours to accommodate the massive crowds, but private vehicle charges have skyrocketed. "Local cab services are demanding nearly double their standard rates, implementing additional waiting charges that further strain travellers' budgets," a fan said.

Innovative solutions are emerging amidst the accommodation crisis. Entrepreneurial locals near the Narendra Modi Stadium and airport are capitalising on the opportunity by renting out spare rooms and entire apartments. Sources said a local offered a 2BHK flat in Koba circle for ₹10,000 for two days – a more affordable alternative to the exorbitant hotel prices.

Fans like Somya Benerjee from Kolkata remain undeterred, describing the concert as a "magical once-in-a-lifetime experience". Many enthusiasts are exploring alternative accommodation options in nearby cities like Gandhinagar, Anand, and Vadodara, though these locations are experiencing similar price surges.

Emergency services and city police are bracing themselves for an unprecedented logistical challenge. An official said that over 3,800 police personnel have been deployed, along with a specialised contingent from the National Security Guard.

"In addition, more than 400 CCTV cameras have been installed to ensure round-the-clock surveillance of the venue and its surroundings," he said, adding that police teams equipped with metal detectors have been stationed at entry points and plain-clothes officers present for discreet monitoring.

Film on Shivaji's son hits Shinde Sena roadblock for 'distorting historical facts'

SUDHIR SURYAWANSHI @ Mumbai

UPCOMING film 'Chhava', starring Vicky Kaushal and Rashmika Mandana as Chhatrapati Sambhaji Maharaj and Maharani Yesubai, has landed in a controversy, with Shiv Sena minister Udaya Samant saying that they will not permit the release of the movie unless it is cleared by historical experts.

The film on Sambhaji, the son of Shivaji Maharaj, landed in the crosshairs of Maratha groups following the release of its trailer featuring a dance sequence that received backlash for its alleged inaccuracy. The trailer has a sequence in which Kaushal and Mandanna are seen dancing with the 'lezim', a traditional musical instrument associated with Maharashtra's cultural heritage.

Samant said producers and directors of the film should take immediate action in this regard and remove anything objectionable.

"It is a matter of joy that a Hindi film is being made based on the life of Chhatrapati Sambhaji Maharaj, the protector of religion and freedom. Such efforts are necessary to make the world understand the history of Chhatrapati. However, many have expressed their opinions that there are some objectionable scenes in this film," he said. "Our position is that this film should not be released without first showing it to experts and knowledgeable people," he added.

Earlier, Sambhaji Maharaj, former BJP Rajya Sabha MP and descendant of Chatrapati Shivaji Maharaj, also raised the concern over the film showing Sambhaji dancing.

"How many people will be convinced about this dance scene of Sambhaji Maharaj? Is it right to portray a serious historical figure in this way? The film has to be made on historical figures to spread their work to the next generation but precautions have to be taken. We cannot portray the Maharaj in the wrong way just to make the film more entertaining," he said.

This film has also sparked a debate on social media. While some call such objectionable scenes an insult to Maratha pride, others demand clarification from the filmmakers.

DyCM challenged by woman MLA over grants

Deputy CM and Health Minister Rajendra Shukla was taken aback during a recent event at the Sidhi district hospital. At the programme, Riti Pathak, a two-time former MP and first-time BJP MLA from the Sidhi seat, questioned Shukla about the status of ₹7 crore sanctioned for upgrading facilities at the district hospital. "I have written multiple letters to you, but am still awaiting a response. As a public representative, it's my right to question you," she remarked. According to political observers, this is possibly the first time that a woman MLA from the BJP has publicly challenged Shukla – a prominent figure in Vindhya region.

Vidhayak Pratinidhis for police stations

Pritam Lodhi, BJP MLA from Pichhore seat of Gwalior-Chambal region, is making headlines for appointing his representatives at police stations in Shivpuri district. The legislator, who faces multiple criminal charges, has designated "Vidhayak Pratinidhis" for three police stations -- Mayapur, Bamorkalan, and Khaniyadhana. In three letters addressed to the district collector, the MLAs states these representatives will participate in meetings of the police stations concerned. However, this move has faced criticism not only for the opposition Congress but also from various factions within in the local BJP unit.

'Remove earthworms, dig deeper for pythons'

"Remove the earthworms, then dig deeper for the pythons," said former CM Uma Bharti as she likened the elusive 'crorepati' former transport department constable, Saurabh Sharma to an earthworm. Indicating that an in-depth investigation may reveal significant figures associated with Sharma, Bharti said, "I urge Mohan Yadav to remove the earthworm (Sharma) from its pit. Only then will it be able to dig deeper to uncover the big pythons lurking beneath." Sharma is being sought by multiple investigative agencies, including I-T department and ED.

Ajmer Dargah survey case petitioner's car attacked, says conspiracy hatched

RAJESH ASNANI @ Jaipur

VISHNU Gupta, who had filed a petition asserting the existence of a Shiva temple within the Ajmer Dargah premises, was allegedly attacked on Saturday morning. Reports suggest that while Gupta was returning from Ajmer to Jaipur, his car was fired upon at around 6 a.m. on Saturday.

According to sources, two bike-borne assailants allegedly opened fire at his vehicle. However, the police have not yet confirmed the incident. Reacting to the alleged attack, Gupta stated it was a well-planned conspiracy against him.

Gupta said, "I came to Ajmer for the hearing in the Dargah case. I stayed the night in a hotel and left for Delhi in a car at around 5.45 a.m. Near the Gaghwana culvert, unknown bike riders started following us and opened fire on the car. They then asked my driver to speed up."

About three months ago, Gupta had complained to the Ajmer's Christianganj police station, reporting a threatening phone call. It was claimed that the caller had warned him to withdraw the case filed in court, saying, "Withdraw the case, or you will be killed."

The national president of Hindu Sena, had filed a petition in the civil court in November last year, claiming the presence of a Sankat Mochan Mahadev temple within the Ajmer Dargah premises. The petition, citing retired judge Harbilas Sarda's book entitled 'Ajmer: Historical and Descriptive, written in 1911,' claims that temple debris was used in the construction of the Dargah. It also mentioned that there was a Jain temple in the sanctum sanctorum and the premises.

The civil court accepted the petition, and two hearings have been conducted so far, with one held on January 24. The incident has sparked concerns over Gupta's security, with his supporters demanding a thorough investigation into the matter.

On statehood day, Sukhu says 25K jobs soon

HARPREET BAJWA @ Chandigarh

CHIEF Minister Sukhvinder Singh Sukhu announced that the government plans to create 25,000 new posts for which recruitment will start soon. He added that the government has fulfilled six of ten promises made during the assembly elections. He said that the financial situation is such that loans are being taken to repay the principal and interest taken by the previous government.

Addressing the 55th statehood day celebration held at Baijnath in Kangra district, Sukhu said, "In last two financial years, the government has taken a loan of ₹30,080 crore, of which ₹18,854 crore has been used to repay the principal and interest on loans taken by the previous government."

He said that during the BJP's tenure in 2021-22, the state received a revenue deficit grant of ₹10,249 crore, which reduced to ₹ 6,258 crore in 2023-24 and is expected to drop further to ₹3,257 crore next year.

Despite financial constraints, he said the government is focusing on resource generation. He said the current government has generated an additional ₹2,200 crore through reforms in excise, tourism, power, and mining policies.

U'khand all set to implement UCC on Monday, says Dhami

NARENDRA SETHI @ Dehradun

IN a landmark move, Uttarakhand will implement the Uniform Civil Code (UCC) on January 27, just one day before Prime Minister Narendra Modi's visit to the state. With this initiative, Uttarakhand will become the first state to have its own UCC since independence.

Chief Minister's Secretary Shailesh Bagoli said, "Letters have been sent to all departments regarding the UCC implementation." The same day, Chief Minister Pushkar Singh Dhami will also launch the UCC portal. The notification for the new law will be issued on January 27, with the portal launch scheduled for 12.30 pm at the secretariat, dedicated to the state's residents.

Under the new law, there will be significant changes to marriage registration, live-in relationships, and the rules concerning children born from such arrangements, Bagoli said, adding "The new legislation aims to provide clarity and uniformity in personal laws."

The BJP has hailed the UCC law as a "glorious era" for the residents of of the state. Speaking to this newspaper, state Parliamentary Affairs Minister Premchand Agarwal stated, "This law, which eliminates discrimination based on religion, caste, and tradition, will position Uttarakhand as a model state."

He added, "Just as the holy waters of the Ganga purify and enrich the entire nation, the UCC will establish legal uniformity, equal laws, and equal rights across the country."

"This law will empower maternal strength, promote societal unity, and safeguard everyone's rights,"Agarwal said. He explained that the UCC aims to simplify existing laws by replacing the Hindu Marriage Act, Hindu Succession Act, and the Muslim Personal Law Application Act with new regulations. Most notably, practices such as polygamy, polyandry, 'halala', 'iddat', and triple talaq will be completely invalidated under this new code.

"The UCC will also mandate the registration of marriages. For marriages that occurred after March 27, 2010, if they have already been registered, simply providing information will suffice. "It is a proud moment for all of us that this historic initiative is starting from Devbhoomi," Agarwal added.

'A glorious era' for Uttarakhand
Mandatory registration of marriage
Complete ban on second marriage while both spouses are alive
Equal right to divorce for husband and wife in all religions
Equal rights to property for sons and daughters across all caste communities
Prohibition of practices like Halala and Iddat in the Muslim community
No discrimination between legitimate and illegitimate children regarding property rights
Mandatory registration for live-in relationships, with equal property rights for offspring

GBS cases up in Pune, teams to check outbreak

SUDHIR SURYAWANSHI @ Pune

THERE has been a significant increase in cases of Guillain-Barré Syndrome (GBS) cases in Pune and the surrounding areas. According to officials, the infection is primarily linked to contaminated water and unclean food, among other factors. So far, 73 confirmed cases have been reported, comprising 47 males and 26 females.

The majority of these cases have come from Pune's Kirkatwadi, Nandoshi, Nanded, Dhayari, and Sinhagad Road.

Primarily caused by the Norovirus, GBS spreads through contaminated food or water and can also be transmitted through airborne particles when an infected person vomits. Of the 73 GBS patients, 44 are from Pune rural, 11 are from Pune city, and they belong to the Pimpri Chinchwad area.

Fourteen GBS patients are stated to be on ventilators.

The infection usually lasts for one to three days, while some cases lead to severe health complications. The local health authority has sent GBS patients' samples to the National Institute of Virology for further testing. However, the initial reports from the NIV indicated the presence of Campylobacter jejuni bacteria and Norovirus, both of which are spread through contaminated food and water. The symptoms of both infections include abdominal pain, vomiting, and diarrhoea.

GBS AFFECTED AREAS
Bhajirao road, Parvarti Darshan, Manik Bhaug, Sinhgad road, Dandekar bridge, Dhayari, Katraj, Kirkitwadi, Nanded city, Kolhewadi, Khadakwasla, Nanded chowk, Ambegaon, DSK Vishwa, Wagholi, Sain Tukaram Nagar, Tharegaon, Pimpri, Indrayani Nagar, Bhosari, Pimpale Gurav, Chikhali, Kelgaon Khed, Chinchwad

The local Pune Municipal Corporation (PMC) initiated a survey of these affected areas and even issued an inspection report of Parvati Water Treatment Centre that confirmed the presence of contaminated water. Residents of these areas have been asked to drink clean drinking water by boiling and purifying it before consumption.

Besides, it was also observed that in GBS-affected areas, the PMC lacks adequate infrastructure, such as water pipelines, to supply clean drinking water, making the residents dependent on private water tankers and other unverified sources.

As part of the ongoing efforts, the municipal corporation has decided to install mesh barriers on the wells supplying water to the areas of Kirkatwadi and Khadakwasla to prevent contamination.

Residents have raised concerns regarding the presence of waste and sewage near the wells, which could exacerbate the health risks in the area. After a sudden rise in the number of GBS-diagnosed patients, the Pune Municipal Corporation has initiated house-to-house measures to contain the spread of GBS at an early stage.

The PMC health department has surveyed 1,943 households in Pune, 1,750 households in the Pimpri Chinchwad Municipal Corporation area, and 3,522 households in Pune rural areas. As many as 7,215 household surveys were carried out. PMC has constituted 100 health survey teams in Pune.

Huge jump in tea imports leaves Northeast small growers worried

PRASANTA MAZUMDAR @ Guwahati

A massive jump in tea imports and Tea Board India's directive for early closure of tea production in North India has left over two lakh small tea growers from the Northeast at their wit's end.

These growers, who contribute over 54 per cent of tea produced in the Northeast, petitioned PM Narendra Modi on Friday under the banner of North East Confederation Small Tea Growers' Association. They sought the Centre's help to save the 200-year-old Indian tea industry.

In a letter, the association said the board had directed the small tea growers to stop harvesting tea leaves from December 1, 2024 for overcoming demand-supply mismatch.

"We have noticed a huge jump in imports of tea from Nepal, Kenya and other African countries. As per the official figures of Tea Board of Kenya, the exports from Kenya to India in 2024 (January to October) is 13.71 million kgs whereas in 2023 (January to October), it was 3.53 million kgs. Therefore, there has been a jump of 288 per cent," the association said.

"In regard to import of Nepal tea, the Mechi Customs Office has witnessed 55.70 per cent rise in tea export to India in six months. The early closure of tea production in North India is cited as the reason behind the rise in import of tea. Therefore, Tea Board's intention to control oversupply of tea in India got defeated," it added.

Stating that excellent leaves, in terms of quality, were noticed in the tea bushes last December but they could not be plucked due to Tea Board's directive; the association said it was a "national loss", not just a loss for the small tea growers.

"Restricting production only in North India will not help in overcoming demand-supply mismatch, if any. Moreover, Tea Board has no official statistics to prove that there is oversupply of tea in India. We have heard that the imported teas are often re-blended and re-exported as Indian teas, which has severely impacted the brand image, value, and demand of Indian teas especially those from Northeast India in the global market," it said.

Referring to reports which indicated that 119 million kgs of old teas are lying at the Mombasa auction centre and awaiting export to India, the association warned that if such unregulated import continues, it would deal a devastating blow to the small tea growers of the Northeast and dismantle the rural economy of the region, particularly in Assam.

Israel releases 200 Palestinians after Hamas frees four IDF soldiers

Israel bars Gazans from returning home as civilian hostage not freed

TEL AVIV

FOUR female Israeli soldiers who were taken in the attack that sparked the war in Gaza returned safely to Israel on Saturday after Hamas militants paraded them before a crowd of thousands in Gaza City and handed them over to the Red Cross. Israel later released 200 Palestinian prisoners in the second exchange of a fragile ceasefire.

The four Israelis smiled, waved and gave the thumbs-up from a stage in Palestine Square, with militants on either side as Hamas again sought to show it remained in control in Gaza after 15 months of war. The hostages likely acted under duress, with previously released ones saying they were held in brutal conditions and forced to record propaganda videos.

Israel's Prison Service later said it had completed the release of 200 Palestinians. They included 121 people who were serving life sentences after being convicted of deadly attacks against Israelis, while others had been held without charge.

Around 70 were released into Egypt, according to Egypt's state-run Qahera TV. Egypt is a key mediator in ceasefire talks. In the ceasefire's first major crisis, Israel said it would not allow displaced Palestinians to begin returning to northern Gaza as had been expected by Sunday, because a civilian hostage who was supposed to be released, Arbel Yahoud, had not been freed. As mediators addressed that, hundreds of Palestinians gathered, waiting to move north.

"Open the way for us to return. That's enough," said one man, Khalil Abd.

Thousands of Palestinians in the occupied West Bank city of Ramallah celebrated the arrival of buses carrying the prisoners. Some prisoners wore Hamas headbands given to them by the jostling crowd. Wan-looking and wearing gray prison sweatsuits, some rode on the shoulders of supporters.

In Tel Aviv's Hostages Square, hundreds of people cheered while watching the release of the four Israelis. AP

Trump asks OPEC to cut oil prices to stop Ukraine war

WASHINGTON

US President Donald Trump is emphasising that targeting Russia's oil revenue is the best way to get Moscow to end its nearly three-year war against neighbouring Ukraine.

Trump, who pledged in the campaign that he'd broker a quick end to the grinding conflict, in his first days in office has leaned in on the idea that OPEC+, the alliance of top oil producing nations, holds the key to ending the war by reducing oil prices.

The president on Friday renewed his call on the group of oil producing exporters, led by Saudi Arabia, to reduce the price of oil.

It's a move he says would bleed Russia of much needed revenue to pay for the conflict.

"One way to stop it quickly is for OPEC to stop making so much money," Trump told reporters. "So, OPEC ought to get on the ball and drop the price of oil. And that war will stop right away." But the push on OPEC+ is an uphill battle, according to industry experts.

Trump made similar calls on OPEC+ this week during a virtual address to the World Economic Forum in Davos, Switzerland. Meanwhile, the president's special envoy to Ukraine and Russia, Keith Kellogg, said Friday that OPEC+ cutting oil prices to $45 per barrel could push Russia to end the war.

"Russia is gaining billions of dollars of money from oil sales," Kellogg said in a Fox News interview. "What if you drop that to $45 a barrel, which is basically a baseline breakeven point?" The Saudi and Russian relationship is complicated, though the countries have cooperated on oil.

In 2016, Russia and other oil producers that weren't part of the alliance joined with Saudi Arabia and other members of the oil cartel to form OPEC+. Russia and Saudi Arabia are by far the biggest producers in the expanded alliance. That move was largely made in response to dramatically falling oil prices due to US shale oil output. The United States is not a member of OPEC or OPEC+.

Patrick De Haan, head of petroleum analysis at GasBuddy, said Trump has a better relationship with Saudi Arabia's crown prince, Mohammad bin Salman, than did his predecessor, Democrat Joe Biden. Still, he said, the Saudis 'still have bills to pay,' and Trump is making a 'huge ask'. "Oil companies respond to economics and not to personal favours," he added. The Kremlin dismissed the idea that Russia could be pressed into talks on ending the war by the US and its allies. AP

China tells Rubio to behave himself

Beijing: China's veteran foreign minister has issued a veiled warning to America's new secretary of state: Behave yourself. Foreign Minister Wang Yi conveyed the message in a phone call. "I hope you will act accordingly," Wang told Rubio, employing a Chinese phrase typically used by a teacher warning a student to behave.

Hegseth confirmed as US defence secretary

Death sentence to four over blasphemous content on FB

LAHORE

A Pakistani court has awarded the death sentence to four men for uploading blasphemous content on Facebook, an official said on Saturday.

Additional Sessions Judge Mohammad Tariq Ayub on Friday convicted Wajid Ali, Ahfaq Ali Saqib, Rana Usman and Suleman Sajid for insulting the Prophet. The court official said the convicts uploaded blasphemous content on Facebook from four different IDs.

"The judge after hearing arguments of both prosecution and defence and witnesses accounts awarded the death penalty and 80 years imprisonment to each of them on different counts," the official said.

They were also slapped with a fine of PKR 5.2 million.

Pakistan's Federal Investigation (FIA) Cybercrime registered a case under the PECA (Prevention of Electronic Crimes Act) and Pakistan Penal Code on the complaint of Shiraz Farooqi, a citizen.

According to Amnesty International, Pakistan's blasphemy laws are often used against religious minorities and others who are the target of false accusations, while emboldening vigilantes prepared to threaten or kill the accused.

"There is overwhelming evidence that Pakistan's blasphemy laws violate human rights and encourage people to take the law into their own hands. Once a person is accused, they become ensnared in a system that offers them few protections, presumes them guilty, and fails to safeguard them against people willing to use violence," it said.

Amnesty International added that in perversion of the justice system, the accused are often presumed to be guilty based on little or no evidence. PTI

FREE PUBLIC TRANSPORT TO CUT POLLUTION

Thai authorities have made travel by public transport in Bangkok free for a week starting Saturday, the latest tactic to try to tackle soaring levels of air pollution that have already seen hundreds of schools closed and employees working from home. The travel concession allows passengers to ride buses and elevated and underground electric trains without charge. Authorities hope the move will cut the number of private cars on the road, driving the surge in pollution. Air pollution has for long been a problem in Thailand's north.

RETURNED ARTIFACTS SHOWCASED

Centuries-old stone Buddha statues and precious jewelries repatriated by the Dutch government to its former colony are on display at Indonesia's National Museum, providing a glimpse into the country's rich heritage that the government had struggled to retrieve. The collection is part of more than 800 artifacts that were returned under a Repatriation Agreement signed in 2022, said Gunawan, the museum's head of cultural heritage. The objects are not just those looted in conflict, but also seized by scientists and missionaries.

US freezes almost all aid except military funding for Israel and Egypt

WASHINGTON

THE United States, the world's biggest donor, froze virtually all foreign aid on Friday, making exceptions only for emergency food, and military funding for Israel and Egypt. Secretary of State Marco Rubio sent an internal memo days after President Donald Trump took office vowing an "America First" policy of tightly restricting assistance overseas. "No new funds shall be obligated for new awards or extensions of existing awards until each proposed new award or extension has been reviewed and approved," said the memo to staff seen by AFP.

The sweeping order appears to affect everything from development assistance to military aid—including to Ukraine, which received billions of dollars in weapons under Trump's predecessor Joe Biden as it tries to repel a Russian invasion. The directive also means a pause of at least several months of US funding for PEPFAR, the anti-HIV/AIDS initiative that buys anti-retroviral drugs to treat the disease in developing countries, largely in Africa. Launched under president George W Bush in 2003, PEPFAR is credited with saving some 26 million lives and until recently enjoyed broad popular support along partisan lines in Washington. But the memo explicitly made exceptions for military assistance to Israel—whose longstanding major arms packages from the United States have expanded further since the Gaza war—and Egypt, which has received generous US defense funding since it signed a peace treaty with Israel in 1979. AFP

Only person in world with functional pig organ thriving after two months

NEW YROK

AN Alabama woman passed a major milestone Saturday to become the longest living recipient of a pig organ transplant — healthy and full of energy with her new kidney for 61 days and counting.

"I'm superwoman," Towana Looney told The Associated Press, laughing about outpacing family members on long walks around New York City as she continues her recovery. "It's a new take on life".

Looney's vibrant recovery is a morale boost in the quest to make animal-to-human transplants a reality. Only four other Americans have received hugely experimental transplants of gene-edited pig organs — two hearts and two kidneys — and none lived more than two months. "If you saw her on the street, you would have no idea that she's the only person in the world walking around with a pig organ inside them that's functioning," said Dr Robert Montgomery of NYU Langone Health, who led Looney's transplant.

Towana Looney

Montgomery called Looney's kidney function 'absolutely normal'. Doctors hope she can leave New York — where she's temporarily living — for her Gadsden, Alabama, home in about another month. "We're quite optimistic that this is going to continue to work and work well for, you know, a significant period of time," he said.

Scientists are genetically altering pigs so their organs are more humanlike to address a severe shortage of transplantable human organs. More than 1,00,000 people are on the US transplant list, most who need a kidney, and thousands die waiting. Pig organ transplants so far have been "compassionate use" cases, experiments the Food and Drug Administration allows only in special circumstances for people out of other options. And the handful of hospitals trying them are sharing information of what worked and what didn't, in preparation for the world's first formal studies of xenotransplantation. AP

Rajapaksa's son arrested by Lankan police on graft charges

COLOMBO

FORMER Sri Lankan president Mahinda Rajapaksa's son Yoshitha Rajapaksa was arrested by police on Saturday on corruption charges in a property purchase case.

Ex-navy officer Yoshitha was arrested from their home territory of Beliatta over the investigation of alleged misconduct in the purchase of the property during the term of his father's presidency prior to 2015.

Yoshitha is the second among Mahinda Rajapaksa's three sons. His uncle and former president Gotabaya Rajapaksa was also quizzed by the police last week on the same property — a holiday home in the southern religious resort of Kataragama.

The arrest came as Mahinda Rajapaksa filed a fundamental rights petition on Friday in the Supreme Court seeking its intervention to reinstate his security, which was significantly reduced by the government last month. Since the formation of a new government led by President Anura Kumara Dissanayake in November last year, Mahinda Rajapaksa's eldest son and legislator Namal Rajapaksa was quizzed by the police over another property case. PTI

German lives 120 days under water, sets record

PUERTO LINDO

A German aerospace engineer celebrated setting a world record Friday for the longest time living underwater without depressurisation — 120 days in a submerged capsule off the coast of Panama.

Rudiger Koch, 59, emerged from his 30-square-meter home at a depth of eleven meters under the sea in the presence of Guinness World Records adjudicator Susana Reyes.

She confirmed that Koch had beaten the record previously held by American Joseph Dituri, who spent 100 days living in an underwater lodge in a Florida lagoon.

Located some 15 minutes by boat from the coast of northern Panama, it was attached to another chamber perched above the waves by a tube containing a narrow spiral staircase, providing a way down for food and visitors, including a doctor.

Solar panels on the surface provided electricity. There was a backup generator, but no shower. Koch had told an AFP journalist who visited him halfway through his endeavor that he hoped it would change the way we think about human life — and where we can settle, even permanently.

"What we are trying to do here is prove that the seas are actually a viable environment for human expansion," he said. Four cameras filmed his moves in the capsule — capturing his daily life, monitoring his mental health and providing proof that he never came up to the surface. The record "is undoubtedly one of the most extravagant" and required "a lot of work", she added. AFP

Florida investor makes competing bid for Religare

Gaekwad makes offer at ₹275/share against ₹235/share by Burmans

ENS ECONOMIC BUREAU @ New Delhi

IN a fresh twist to the acquisition of diversified fintech firm Religare Enterprise Limited (REL), Florida-based businessman Danny Gaekwad has made a counter offer in cash for the company at ₹275 a share as against ₹235 apiece made by the Burman Family of the FMCG major Dabur group.

The offer was made in a letter addressed to the Chairperson of market regulator Securities and Exchange Board of India (Sebi), as per a filing made by Religare to the BSE. Written on behalf of Danny Gaekwad Developments & Investments Florida, the letter stated its offer of ₹275 per equity share represents a 17% premium to the open offer price offered by the Burmans and a 24% premium to the 60-day volume weighted average price of REL's shares calculated with a reference date of September 22, 2023, of ₹221.

"We believe the Burmans' open offer price of ₹235 per equity share grossly undervalues the real worth of REL and is to the detriment of public shareholders. At the time the offer was made on September 25, 2023, the offer price was at a discount of 15% to REL's prevailing market price of nearly ₹271 per share. Even considering the closing price of REL shares on January 22, 2025, Burmans' open offer price is at a steep discount of 7%," the letter stated.

The offer is made days before Burmans' open offer to acquire an additional 26% stake in REL from the open market is set to commence. Last month, the Reserve Bank approved the open offer of the Burman family. As of September 30, 2024, through its four entities, Burmans collectively owns a 25.12% stake in REL.

Meanwhile, independent directions of REL on Wednesday requested shareholders to evaluate the offer and make an informed decision in their best interest about tendering their shares in the open offer.

Gaekwad's letter stated that the Burmans' offer is silent on the nature of the approval granted by the RBI to it on December 9, 2024. The letter says the Burmans have not made any disclosure on the contours of the consolidation plan and potential impact on REL shareholders.

Gaekwad said their offer will be a genuine and transparent competing offer to the public shareholders that not only offers a higher price per equity share but is also not riddled with the uncertainty around the contours and "impact of the RBI-mandated consolidation condition with respect to NBCs in Religare and Burman groups (as we do not have any competing NBFC in our group)." He requested the SEBI to issue requisite directions to keep the tendering period for the Burmans' Open Offer as announced in their LOF in abeyance for the time being so that tendering by the public in both the Burmans' Open Offer and their competing offer (if granted by SEBI) can occur simultaneously.

According to University of Central Florida where Gaekwad is on the board of trustees, Digvijay "Danny" Gaekwad is a first-generation American "renaissance entrepreneur" and community leader based in Ocala, FL.

He is the Founder-CEO of NDS USA, an IT & Cloud Services company, and the Founder of Danny G Management, which owns and operates various restaurants and hotels. He also owns DG Hospitality, a hotel and restaurant management consulting company, and Danny Gaekwad Development & Investments, which oversees his real estate investments.

NEWSCOPE

MORE STICK THAN CARROT AT DAVOS

GURBIR SINGH

DAVOS saw new excitement this year. The annual jamboree of world corporate and political leaders, who meet in the scenic Swiss alpine village annually, got a taste of the new world order as defined by Donald J Trump. The US is no more interested in leading the world through crisis and turmoil. It is 'America First'. Self-interest will be the watchword. If you help the US get fatter and richer, you are an 'ally'. If you don't, well.. you are 'enemy', 'terrorist', or 'tariff-worthy'. Take your pick.

Trump did not make it to Davos; he was virtually there on the big screen. And world leaders tripped over each other to hear him. When he spoke, he drew heavy applause.

But his message to Davos and the world was tough stuff. The carrot and the stick, but mostly the stick. He said he would lower taxes within US borders to 15 from the current 21 percent, to help crank up production and business at home. For the world elites, there was a warning: "... if you don't make your product in America, which is your prerogative, then very simply you will have to pay a tariff."

The third step: lower energy costs. In other words: drill, baby, drill. The US, already the largest oil producer, would swamp the world with higher output; and Trump believes he can make a deal with OPEC to abandon production cuts. These steps would reduce energy prices, leading to cost of living becoming cheaper in the US.

And finally: with inflation under control, Trump would demand the Federal Reserve lower interest rates, which would reduce borrowing costs for businesses and consumers.

Will 'Trumpism' work?

All this 'America First' may sound great, but it may not work. Slashing corporate tax rates does give business an initial boost – Trump had brought down corporate tax from 35 to 21 percent in his first innings; but in the long run, the learning is productivity does not increase proportionately to make up for the loss in tax revenue, burdening the government with heavy deficit. Similarly, higher tariffs being threatened against Canada, China and the rest of the world will boomerang back on US importers of goods, who will then pass on the hit to US consumers. This could then stoke inflation and slow down the US economy.

Super power intervention by the US, Russia or China anywhere in the world is always for self-interest. It may be couched in the principles of philanthropy, but the end goal is colonialism is some form. In Trump's world, the gloves are off. The soft language is gone, and realpolitik will be brutally defined and implemented.

MANDAR PARDIKAR

Nowhere is US' retreat into 'Fortress America' more explicit than in the areas of Climate change and health security. Among Trump's first decisions was to announce the US' withdrawal from the 2015 Paris Climate accord. This is the second time. He had earlier pulled the plug in 2017. This could have serious ramifications for a world struggling with global warming and adverse climate events. Parties to the climate talks have fixed environment saving targets to be met by 2035. By pulling out of the Paris Accord, Trump wants to be free to develop his 'dirty' energy plans.

In another executive order on the first day of office, Trump signed out of the World Health Organization (WHO) leaving both the US and the world more vulnerable to infectious diseases and public health threats. Pandemics such as those triggered by the Covid-19 can be only tackled with a global strategy. The withdrawal signals not just cutting off US funding, but a weaker unified response to health care challenges.

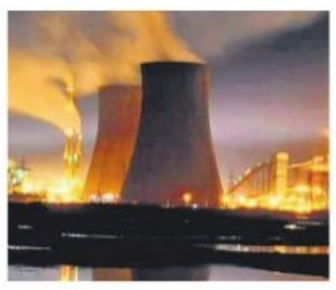
New bloc emerging

Some European leaders at Davos pushed back on Trump's abandoning the world's climate agenda. EU's executive head, Ursula von der Leyen, called the 2015 Paris accord "the best hope for all humanity" and vowed: "Europe will stay the course." But many of the reactions seen at Davos were skittish or play-it-safe.

What is significant is the emergence of a pro-Trump bloc. In his 2017 round, Trump was an outsider. This time there's a small but vocal group amplifying his politics. The loudest at Davos was Argentinian president Javier Milei who praised Trump and his allies – Italian prime minister Giorgia Meloni, Israeli's Benjamin Netanyahu, Hungarian PM Viktor Orban and El Salvador's President Nayib Bukele. Milei said Argentina was "re-embracing the idea of freedom" and "that is what I trust President Trump will do in this new America".

There was a jarring note from the left wing. For all the wealth being promised and created, income inequality had become more pronounced, it said. Before Ursula Van der Leyen spoke, climate activists unfurled a banner over the main Davos Congress Center atrium that read, "Tax the super-rich! Fund a just and green future."

The British charity Oxfam, in its annual report released just before Davos said: Billionaire wealth grew by $2 trillion in 2024 alone, equivalent to roughly $5.7 billion a day, at a rate 3 times faster than the year before. An average of nearly 4 new billionaires were minted every week. Meanwhile, the number of people living in poverty has barely changed since 1990.



NTPC profit falls marginally to ₹5,169 cr in Q3

ENS ECONOMIC BUREAU @ Mumbai

STATE-owned NTPC on Saturday reported a marginal fall in consolidated net profit to ₹5,169.69 crore for Q3FY25 as against Q3FY24 due to higher tax expenses and adjustments.

It had reported a consolidated net profit of ₹5,208.87 crore in the same quarter Q3FY24. Total income rose to ₹45,597.95 crore in Q3FY24 from ₹43,574.65 crore. Total tax expenses in Q3 rose to ₹2,075.12 crore from ₹1,361.75 crore a year ago. Net movement in regulatory deferral account balances (net of tax) was (minus) ₹343.09 crore in Q3 against ₹1,436.24 crore (plus) in Q3FY24.

Net movement in regulatory deferral account balances (net of tax) consists of exchange differences arising from settlement/translation of monetary item denominated in foreign currency to the extent recoverable from or payable to the beneficiaries in subsequent periods, deferred tax liability reversible in future periods when they become current tax and similar items which will be materialised in future considering the CERC Tariff Regulations and the requirements of Ind AS 114- 'Regulatory deferral accounts'.

ICICI Bank profit rises 15% to ₹11,792 cr on treasury gains

BENN KOCHUVEEDAN @ Mumbai

COUNTRY'S second-largest private sector lender ICICI Bank on Saturday reported a near 15% growth to ₹11,792 crore in net income in the third quarter ending December on robust interest income and treasury gains from bonds.

The bank management told reporters in a concall on Saturday that the key net interest income for the quarter rose 9.1% to ₹20,371 crore, boosting its net income by 14.8% even though the margin compressed to 4.25% from 4.43% a year earlier..

While fee non-core income grew 16.3% to ₹6,180 crore led by fees from retail, rural and business banking customers contributed 78% of total fees. The biggest gain in the quarter was treasury gains at ₹371 crore, which more than doubled, as against ₹123 crore a year ago. The bank's executive director Sandeep Batra attributed the rise in treasury yield to the gains from Gsecs yields.

On the back of the aggressive push on digital banking, the bank saw revenue jumping nearly 23% to ₹10,194 crore, Batra told reporters here.

For provisions and contingencies (funds set aside for potential bad loans) rose nearly 17% to ₹1,227 crore from ₹1,049 crore even though the bank's asset quality was largely stable, with gross non-performing assets at 1.96% versus 1.97% earlier. Batra said the country's third-largest bank will continue to grow its corporate book, which increased to ₹2.81 lakh crore in the reporting quarter, compared to ₹2.48 lakh crore, up 13.2%, according to the investor presentation. "Our focus has always been to grow within our risk and return thresholds while considering all available opportunities for serving our customers in a 360 degree manner," Batra said.

Yes Bank reports 2.6x rise in net profit to ₹612 cr

ENS ECONOMIC BUREAU @ Mumbai

PRIVATE sector lender Yes Bank on Saturday reported a 2.6x increase in net income at ₹612 crore for the December quarter, buoyed by a sharp decline in provisions and higher fee income as its retail banking business is returning to near normalcy as it has begun to draw back from the capital locked in the RIFD.

In the last quarter, the bank, owned by other banks led by SBI, had reported a 150% jump in net profit at ₹553 crore.

While ₹612 crore net income is 2.6 times more than the year ago period, this is partly due to ₹8,000 crore of the ₹44,000 crore locked in rural infrastructure development fund (RIFD) for not meeting priority sector lending norms after it went belly up in March 2020. Sequentially, net profit rose 11%. Provisions and contingencies fell by 50% YoY to ₹259 crore, signalling improved asset quality.

NET INTEREST INCOME UP 10% AT ₹2,223 CR

Net interest income of the bank increased 10% to ₹2,223 crore, though net interest margin remained flat at 2.4% both annually and sequentially, which Kumar and his CFO Niranjan Banodkar attributed to zero yielding assets stuck in RIDF. The management sounded confident of taking back the bank to better days going forward based on their better numbers in the past five quarters.

The management sounded confident of taking back the bank to better days going forward based on their better numbers in the past five quarters.

CEO Prashant Kumar told reporter on Saturday that this is the fifth consecutive quarter of logging in positive earnings.

Net interest income rose 10% to ₹2,223 crore, though net interest margin remained flat at 2.4% both annually and sequentially, which Kumar and his CFO Niranjan Banodkar attributed to zero yielding assets stuck in RIDF. "We got released ₹8,000 crore from the RIFD in the third week of December so it didn't have any material impact on the margins, this has brought down amount locked in ₹36,000 crore, 8% of our total assets, down from 11%.

Indian employees work for 42 hours a week, says report

DIPAK MONDAL @ New Delhi

CORPORATE leaders advocating 70-hours a week work for employees would be disappointed to know that in India an employee works for an average 42 hours a week. A report prepared by one of the members of the Prime Minister's Economic Advisory Council – Shamika Ravi – shows that an Indian on an average works for 7 hours every day.

"Indians spend 422 minutes a day on paid economic activities or 42 hours per week (assuming 6 day a week), which is much lower than the 700 minutes per day or 70 hours per week benchmark expectation being set," says the report.

However, it acknowledges the fact that Indian working hour is comparable to 'other fast developing countries like Vietnam, China, Malaysia, and Philippines. Most developed OECD countries report much lower working hours -- 33 hours per week on average.

MSETCL guarantees additional power supply

Mumbai: Considering the continuous increasing demand for power in Mumbai city and suburban areas, the Maharashtra State Electricity Transmission Company Ltd (MSETCL) had replaced the old supplementary 400 KV Kalwa-Padgha transmission number 1 conductor by a high power conductor within a record 17 days. This work was completed with the assistance of over 500 skilled employees. Now it will be possible for both these lines to transmit 4,200 megawatt of electricity, instead of the earlier 2,000 megawatt through Line -1 and Line -2, together. The 27-km-long work of this transmission line was completed earlier in 2023- 24. The MSETCL has planned to complete the work of remaining 23 km long transmission lines on war footings.

Arshdeep ICC Men's T20I Cricketer of the Year

Indian left-arm seamer Arshdeep Singh was on Saturday crowned the ICC Men's T20I Cricketer of the Year 2024 for his influential role in the team's World Cup title triumph, which cemented his reputation as one of the leading short format bowlers. The 25-year-old took 36 wickets in 18 matches last year.

Padma Bhushan for Sreejesh, Ashwin among 4 to get Padma Shri

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE

FORMER men's hockey captain P R Sreejesh has been chosen for the Padma Bhushan, while recently-retired ace off-spinning all-rounder R Ashwin is among the Padma Shri winners as four athletes make the list of 139 finalised for the coveted civilian awards on Saturday.

Meanwhile, legendary Indian footballer I M Vijayan, and India's first Paralympic gold medal-winning archer Harvinder Singh too are named for the Padma Shri, the fourth highest civilian honour. Para athletics coach Satyapal Singh, who mentored Paris Paralympics gold-winning and Khel Ratna-awardee high-jumper Praveen Kumar, will also be bestowed with the Padma Shri.

Sreejesh, who retired after winning a second successive Olympic bronze (2020 Tokyo and 2024 Paris) with the national team in Paris last year, is currently the head coach of the junior men's team.

Meanwhile, Ashwin, 38, one of the stalwarts of the sport and a key architect behind India's dominance in Test cricket over the past decade, bid adieu to international cricket after the third Test against Australia in Brisbane midway through the Border-Gavaskar series in Australia. He finished as India's second highest wicket-taker in Tests with 537 scalps in 106 games. Ashwin will play for Chennai Super Kings in the upcoming Indian Premier League. The five were picked for the Padma awards by President Droupadi Murmu on the eve of the 76th Republic Day.

Over the past 28 years, the Australian Cricketers' Association has been vital in ensuring the welfare of the cricketers in the country. Gomesh S learns more from its new president...

OF THE PLAYERS, BY THE PLAYERS, FOR THE PLAYERS

THE past month and a half has been a bit of an exciting phase for Christina Matthews. The most capped Australian female Test cricketer and one of senior cricket administrators in the country, Matthews became the president of Australian Cricketers' Association in December. "I've been doing a lot of reading and understanding the governance of the ACA," an excited Matthews tells this daily.

Former Chief Executive Officer of Western Australia Cricket Association, Matthews is the first female president of the organisation that has played an integral part in the welfare and rights of Australian cricketers since its formation in 1997. In the 28 years since, the ACA and its role in ensuring players come first has been instrumental in keeping the cricketing culture rich and healthy. From getting state and central contracts for the players — men and women — or continually working with the Memorandum of Understanding it has signed with Cricket Australia or ensuring that the athletes have good medical care and are prepared for a life after cricket, the ACA has been with the players in every step.

Sunday Special

It is something Matthews and the ACA are very proud of. Players have the option of studying at no cost to themselves while playing, work experience programmes where they could work in different environments and see what they like to do and welfare programmes to ensure the mental health of the cricketers. "There's a support network there for them if they are having any difficulties or ensuring that they are prepared for the challenges that come in an environment which is all about selection really and managing the ups and downs of being a professional cricketer."

On the cricketing front, the total revenue share players get has gone up from nine per cent in 1997 to 30 per cent share of agreed revenue with 2.5 per cent of which being performance based. The livelihood of players and the opportunities they get across the world in this day and age is incomparable to what was the case when Matthews was a player. The road to get here has been a journey filled with numerous stalemates, continual negotiations between ACA, CA and the players. And as and when any change happens from a sporting point of view, the MoU gets amended accordingly. Matthews' administrative experience as WACA CEO for 12 years will come in handy in taking the progress forward. In her time at the ACA, she was at the forefront of the transformation in WACA, including the establishment of The Perth Stadium which had its share of opposition within the community. "One of the things I've learnt in my time is you never say no to anything until you have really examined what the opportunities are. I think that is cricket's greatest challenge is to keep looking to the future and not rule things out. We've heard a lot about Test cricket being dead. There's no doubt Test cricket's alive and well, but there's also other forms of cricket where players are able to make a full-time living now and we've got to work together on how we make those opportunities continue to grow."

"It's becoming more important with providing players assistance when they go into leagues all over the world, where we used to have to think about the relationship between the state associations and CA. Now, we've got to be available to help players, whether they're playing in Bangladesh, Abu Dhabi, India, wherever they're playing, and make sure they know they can get in touch with us if they've got any issues. What I want to do in my role is to look forward on how do we position the players to be able to make the most of the opportunities, and how do we protect them in some areas," she explains.

SECOND T20I

Tilak rises to the occasion, helps team cross finish line

ASHOK VENUGOPAL @ Chennai

TILAK Varma's brilliant 72 not out and a handy 26 from Washington Sundar down the order helped India to a thrilling win over England by two wickets in the second T20I at the MA Chidambaram stadium on Saturday. India lead the five match series 2-0.

When six runs was required off the last over from Jamie Overton, Varma took a brace before hitting the next ball to the boundary to seal the win.

Playing with the lower order and the tail is an art and Varma showed his maturity in handling the same. For England, an all-round display by Brydon Carse (31 and 3/29) went in vain.

When the hosts skipper Suryakumar Yadav won the toss and inserted the opposition in, it was expected to be another trial by spin. Would England fold against the tweakers for the second time in a matter of days after their meek surrender in Kolkata in the first match of the series?

The answer? Yes. And no. They managed to hit them with ease but whenever they didn't connect cleanly, they still ended up giving away wickets to them as all of Axar (2/32), Varun Chakravarthy (2/38), Washington Sundar (1/9) and Abhishek Sharma (1/12) bowled in tandem and picked up six wickets among themselves to restrict England to 165 for 9 in 20 overs. With the luxury of four spinners at his disposal, Suryakumar Yadav kept shuffling them vigorously. This did not allow the incoming England batters to settle down.

Varun Chakravarthy troubled Buttler and Harry Brook before castling with a delivery that snuck in through bat and pad. It invited a quizzical reaction from Brook but Chakravarthy knew what he was doing.

After this soft dismissal, Buttler lost his concentration and holed out. From then on it was a virtual march past.

Brief scores: England 165/9 in 20 ovs (Buttler 45, Carse 31; Axar 2/32, Washington 1/9, Varun 2/38) lost to India 166/8 in 19.2 ovs (Tilak 72 n.o; Carse 3/29).

Contrasting wins for EPL contenders

AGENCIES @ London

CODY Gakpo struck twice as Premier League leaders Liverpool thrashed Ipswich 4-1 to maintain their six-point lead over Arsenal, who survived Myles Lewis-Skelly's controversial red card to snatch a 1-0 win at Wolves on Saturday.

Arne Slot's side cruised to their second successive league victory thanks to a first half goal-spree at Anfield.

Dominik Szoboszlai's 11th-minute opener fizzed past Ipswich goalkeeper Christian Walton from Ibrahima Konate's assist. Mohamed Salah doubled Liverpool's advantage in the 35th minute with a fierce strike for his 23rd goal in all competitions this term. Results: Brighton 0-1 Everton; Liverpool 4-1 Ipswich; Southampton 1-3 Newcastle; Wolves 0-1 Arsenal; Bournemouth 5-0 Nottm Forest.

Chennaiyin FC's difficult run in ISL continues, lose to FC Goa

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@ Chennai

CHENNAIYIN FC's difficult run continued as they suffered a 0-2 defeat against FC Goa in the Indian Super League at the Jawaharlal Nehru Stadium in Fatorda on Saturday.

Chennaiyin are now winless in their last six outings (3 losses, 3 draws) in the league. Their last win came against Hyderabad FC on December 11 last year. On the day, Iker Guarrotxena (11') and Aakash Sangwan (26') scored for the home side.

This was Chennaiyin's eighth loss of the season and they remain in 10th position. FC Goa, meanwhile, are placed second with 33 points.

Keys unlocks first Grand prize

AFP @ Melbourne

MADISON Keys upset Aryna Sabalenka 6-3, 2-6, 7-5 in the Australian Open final on Saturday to win her first Grand Slam crown at the age of 29. The American ended World No 1 Sabalenka's dream of becoming the first woman for 26 years to win a third successive Melbourne Park singles title.Keys yelled in delight and wiped away tears on securing the title after withstanding a fierce fightback from the Belarusian two-time defending champion.

Sabalenka, the 2023 and 2024 champ, buried her head in a towel after her 20-match win streak at Melbourne Park was ended. For Keys it was the culmination of a 15-year journey from teenage prodigy to Major winner. "I have wanted this for so long and I have been in one other Grand Slam final and it did not go my way," said an emotional Keys, whose coach Bjorn Fratangelo is also her husband. "I didn't know if I was ever going to get back to this position to try to win a trophy again." The American had been tipped as a future World No 1 after winning her maiden WTA Tour match at the age of 14. She made her first Major semifinal at Melbourne Park 10 years ago as a 19-year-old, but a decade on she can finally call herself a Grand Slam champion.
